Gladstone - Oquawka High School

Gladstone, Illinois

MR. A. T. MEAD
Superintendent Unit 115

G-O High School is a Community School

It represents students from Oquawka, Gladstone, and Gulfport. Our high school provides a basic "general education" for all. It also includes vocational courses in Commerce, Home-making, and Industrial Arts.

"Don" Henry

DEDICATION

Our 1953 Memories is sincerely dedicated to Mr. Donald Henry who has been our class adviser during our junior and senior years. Mr. Henry joined the faculty of G-O High School in 1951.

In World War II, he served as Captain in the U. S. Army Air Force. Perhaps that contributes to his definite belief that honor and good sportsmanship should rank first in every good school system.

During the two years that Mr. Henry has been at G-O High, he has become a real friend to us. His sincerity and genuine interest in young people have been displayed in the work he has done. Mr. Henry's room is not just a formal classroom where one enters and leaves at the signal of bells; there you will find an atmosphere of friendliness and understanding, good humor, and "A Welcome to All!"

His co-operation has been unlimited. We have found him ready at all times, not just to give advice, but to "pitch in" and help to finance that memorable senior trip we have planned to the Scenic West. It is with deep appreciation, we dedicate this yearbook to "Don" Henry.

CLASSES

John Ekelof
"Enough of your impertinence."

Social Science

This is primarily an elective course for members of the junior class.

Economics deals with the phases of Production, Exchange, Distribution, Consumption, Government and Finance, and Our Economic Outlook.

The semester of Government introduces us to the problems of our Local, State, Federal, and International Governments.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS

In the curriculum for seniors is this subject pertaining to the "Problems Facing American Democracy."

The purpose of this course is to make us more conscious of one's own social being, and to give a clearer idea of the historical setting of the problems of democracy, and the vital need for clear thinking in our present day.

Industrial Arts

Industrial Arts was offered to all classes during the 1952-1953 school year.

The shop I course was divided into mechanical drawing, hand wood-working, electricity, and metal. These divisions are made, so that it will be possible for each student to explore the different fields and receive a general background of shop work.

In Shop II, the course is also divided with one semester of machine woodworking, and the other of advanced metal work.

The course for the juniors and seniors was made up of general shop work. Each student was allowed to work in any field. This gave him a chance to practice acquired information, as well as to develop his skill.

Commerce

These student monitors have done a fine job in the commercial department this year. Each girl was assigned to a certain class; she had definite duties to perform. These included keeping the attendance record, duplicating and distributing weekly assignment sheets, writing mailable letters, collecting daily assignments and keeping an accurate record of their grades. The students were taught efficiency and responsibility comparable to that required in actual office work.

STUDENTS ARE READY FOR COLLEGE!

There are many schools to choose from! Which will it be?

These girls have made their decisions: Judy Werts plans to attend Monmouth College Jane Weir has her application in at MacMurray Janet Dillon has decided on Monmouth Jo expects to enter Illinois Western State College

Teresa will be attending Western Beverly is interested in a School of Nursing

The freshmen girls always like a little special attention, and they're entitled to it too, aren't they?

English IV

It's pretty rugged at times, but twenty seniors are doing a good job of it, whether it be poetry or prose!

DONALD HENRY

He's the official reporter for G-O High, and if you happen to pass his door on a Tuesday, you're liable to see "Absalom Worthless Spates" pecking away, as he writes his weekly column for the Henderson County Journal. (There's always plenty of good humor sandwiched in.)

Science

General science, biology, and physics were the courses offered by G-O's science department during the 1952-53 school year.

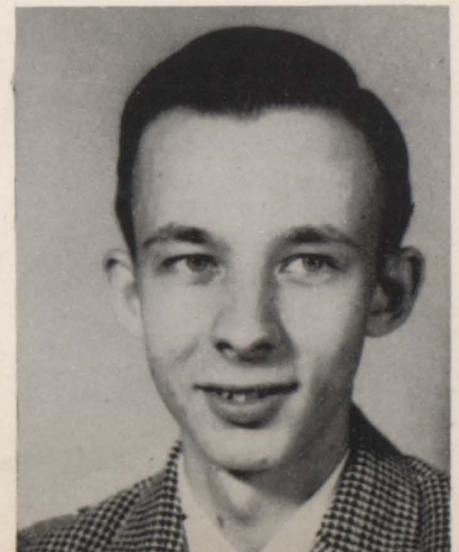

The Freshmen surveyed many fields of science including weather, geology, health, control of fire, and conservation. Both sections of the general science showed much aptitude in grasping scientific concepts.

Biology occupied the scientific minded Sophomores. This year's class quickly mastered the many long terms used in biology and strived to be conscientious students.

Physics, the Junior-Senior course, consisted of the study of mechanics, heat, sound, light, electricity, and nuclear physics. Experiments, performed by the students, clarified many of the laws of physical science.

Homemaking

The Homemaking classes have studied foods, clothing construction, consumer education, child development, management, family relations, and interior design. Throughout the year, they have completed home projects and arranged home visits for the instructor.

EN ROUTE FOR THE WEST!

We're ready to start on May 29. Our trip, this year, will be to the Scenic West. Tours to various places of interest such as Colorado Springs, Denver, Estes Park, Pikes Peak, Will Rogers Shrine, Garden of the Gods, Royal Gorge, and the Denver Mint will be taken by the class. We have asked Mr. and Mrs. Henry to accompany us.

Above is the beginning, and below is the result of a great year in athletics at G-O, the most successful in the history of G-O high school. Outstanding accomplishments were the WILCO football championship, a tie for the WILCO first place in league play, winning the WILCO tourney outright in basketball in the varsity division, and the Frosh-Soph team's winning both crowns without a defeat. The varsity won the District tournament title by downing Kirkwood 45-44, thereby handing this worthy opponent its first defeat in twenty-eight games played this year. In football, the record was six wins and two losses. In basketball, the varsity had nineteen wins and eight losses.

Pictures of this year's teams, and the football and basketball lettermen appear on the following pages.

SENIORS SAY FAREWELL TO G-O HIGH

On a momentous September morning in 1949, forty-one freshmen, hailing from Gulfport, Gladstone, Oquawka, and points in between swooped down upon the peaceful environ of Gladstone-Oquawka High School. Everything was new and strange. Forty-one freshmen were ever so insignificant--at least they felt that they were. Half hesitant, half confident, they stood there on the threshold of that vast hall of learning poised to take their first fateful steps into a new life.

The first few days were hectic. There were forms to be filled out, books to get, first classes to attend, and new customs to learn. Everything was so bewildering. Coming from many different schools, these forty-one freshmen made many new acquaintances. The first "Mixer" was a party held at the Burlington Y.W.C.A.; this was followed by a show. There were many such parties throughout the year, and in a short time the strangeness was gone, and all faces were familiar. Mrs. Marr, the English teacher, was the class adviser. She was always ready to help and she is fondly remembered for her enthusiasm and her friendly counsel, that meant so much during the eventful first year.

Sophomores, and sophisticated, the ranks of the class of '53 had decreased by ten. Life had become beautiful at last, and the thirty-one survivors went into their second year at G-O with eagerness and determination. It was a busy year too. Mr. Zuege, the coach, was the class sponsor, and he did much to make the year pleasant and memorable. The hamburger fry at Crapo Park, the skating parties, and the picnic at South Henderson will long be remembered.

Juniors at last! Three more had dropped by the wayside. Life began in earnest for the twenty-eight veterans. There was money to make! There were concessions to run! There was corn to pop! There was a play to put on and the prom ahead! Oh! prom of proms! There were so many things to do that year. Already the senior trip was in sight, and money had to be made. Everyone worked, everyone worried, and everyone had fun. Who can forget the hayrack ride, "Wildcat Willie," the homecoming float, and the chop suey? Mr. Henry was the class shepherd.

All too quickly, the third year was over, and at last the class of '53 came into its own. Seniors they were! Who could ask for more? Their time to live was at hand. This was their most complete and successful year. Mr. Henry was re-elected class sponsor and we shall always be grateful to him for his guidance and help.

There was a food stand to run at the Gladstone homecoming. There was another one at the Oquawka fall festival. There was the homecoming to plan. How everyone worked! There were balloons and streamers to deck the gym! The parade was to plan and the float to build. Jane and Bill reigned as queen and king at this event. A week after school started, Jo Ann Conn became the twenty-seventh member of our class. Dances and games and the play kept everybody busy. "Our Miss Brooks" will not soon be forgotten. The play went off smoothly, and everyone seemed to enjoy it. As the year neared its close, twenty-six seniors began to count the days. The great adventure was nearly over. What next?

Such things as caps, gowns, cards, and invitations became topics of conversation. Where would their graduation be was also discussed. The twenty-eighth of May became an important date. The vast halls had been traversed. With lingering footsteps, the class of '53 approached the final threshold. No longer hesitant, now fully confident, they stood poised to walk proudly forth into a new life!

CLASS PROPHECY

Mildred Bielser: Mildred, now Mrs. Earl Bielser, is living in Austin, Texas. Midge is as charming as ever in her new home with their two children, one a blonde, the other a brunette, Earl operates a grain elevator there. He's "on the up!"

Willie Bielser: Willie, good-natured Willie, is now a millionaire in his own rights. Strangely enough, he made his fortune by manufacturing glasses for hoot-owls to use while flying in the daytime. Phenomenal!

Jo Ann Conn: Jo is director of Women's Physical Education at the "U" of Oregon. She is also a renowned authority on bridge.

Raus Cooper: We have heard Raus recently won the famous five hundred mile race at the Indianapolis Speedway. Congratulations, Raus!

Ercel Davis: You'll be happy to know that Ercel is "cleaning-up" in the Cleaning business. Ercel always was a "go-getter!" He is soaring right ahead to the top; so are his prices!!

Barbara Decker: Barbara is our literary genius. She has had four "Best Sellers," published, and if you would like to have her autograph the fifth one, watch the Chicago papers! She is scheduled to appear at one of the leading bookstores soon.

Janet Dillon: Just what we imagined! Janet is a leading fashion artist for the magazine "Seventeen" with her office in New York City. Take a look at Janet. She is a model for all she fashions!

Colleen Dixon: You remember "Deaner," the smallest member of her class. Well, she's employed by Canover of New York to model Paris gowns for over-sized midgets. Girls! she has some of the loveliest creations, if you're lucky enough to fit into any of them. Just watch your diet!

Wanda Dixon: Wanda is now executive secretary to the Vice-president of Woolworth's. We aren't surprised. She was always efficient and right "on the job!"

Carol Fryrear: Here is exciting news! Carol owns and operates a nationwide chain of Sweete Shoppes. Her cash register runs up fabulous sums of figures, so Carol doesn't have to worry about "balancing her budget!"

Teresa Hall: Can you imagine Teresa a leading Hollywood hair stylist? Well, it all began that day in Social Problems as she sat there so innocently twisting her hair, suddenly she originated a HAIR-DO that she has commercialized into fame and fortune!

Pauline Karger: Pauline is operating a chain of restaurants known as The Karger Kitchens. They are scattered throughout the West, and Pauline is busy flying from place to place.

Don Klossing: Always laughing--sometimes serious. Well believe it or not! Don is a research chemist with the Standard Oil. He developed a new motor fuel that will give forty miles per hour. Nice going!

Mike Lewis: Here's the latest on Mike! He has made the navy his career and now commands his own ship. Mike has all the mannerisms of the military. Ah! for the life of a sailor, with a girl in every port!

Beverly Lox: Bev, and a nicer gal you couldn't find, is head dancing instructress at the Gene Kelly Dancing Academy in Hollywood. Bev was never a girl to "strut her stuff," but we know she "had what it takes."

John McCabe: While on a exploring expedition in Africa, John discovered a rare species of blackbird, which he sold to the London Zoo for a fabulous sum. Often, you see John visiting his pet bird at the Zoo...

Bill McGraw: Bill is a test pilot constantly "burning up the skies" to set new records for his jet plane. He is "on his way!"

Lee McGraw: Of course, you know Lee was lined up to be a comedian, and headed for "big time," but Fate overtook him! Unfortunately, he was caught stealing some of Jackie Gleason's stale jokes and was demoted. Hard luck, Lee!

Nile Olson: Nile, our super athlete is now head coach at Notre Dame and is nationally known as the "New Rockne." Remember his stride! He was always "going places."

Lorraine Peterson: Lorraine, Mrs. Peterson, and her husband have just completed building a ranch house. Modernistic in every detail. Lorraine did all the designing. She would!

Darlene Pruett: Now Mrs. Duane Fryrear, had a full time job taking care of the twins and their family budget in their new home in Portland, Oregon.

Mildred Smith: Here's an astonishing fact! For several years, Mildred has successfully managed and trained a team of lady wrestlers and Wotta a Team! Mildred knows "all the tricks," and oh, can she "put them over!"

John Weeks: Here is a surprise! Jack has a weekly TV show of his own. It's a super duper show, and he is the big shot, nationally known as "Valention" Weeks.

Jane Weir: You won't be surprised to hear about Jane. She is on the staff in the Dramatic Department at Vassar College. Of course, she has a Dr's degree after her name, but she is still just "Jane" to us.

Judy Werts: Judy has burst into fame with little or no effort. Always quick on her toes, Judy now is acclaimed the greatest ballet dancer since Pavalova.

Maxine Younge: Maxine is the wife of a Professor of Music at Knox College. They are located in Galesburg, and often visit in Oquawka.

The women in charge of the Hot Lunch Program.
 Everett Lewis.
 Plenty to eat and good food! That's what they have served us this year.

Bill, our janitor, has been with us for five years. When he drives the bus, there is "no foolin'"; when he "takes over" on the Senior trip, we're bound to
 "go places." That's why we are planning ahead for May 29!
