

DEDICATION

OUR SCHOOL

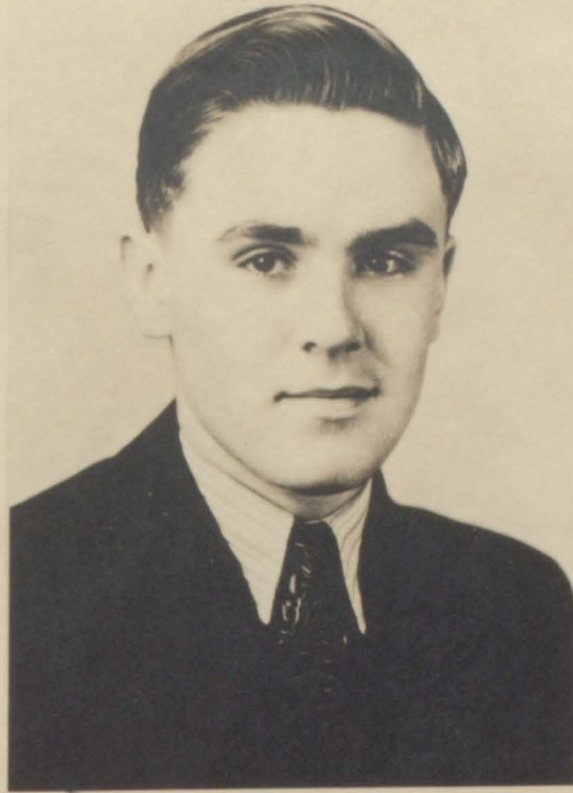

You belong to each one of us and each year we are here you become more a part of us. We take with pride the honor of protecting your name and glory. You are just what we, as the student body, make you. Carry on you Indians, and long may Old Glory wave at your entrance.

James Gabby

*James
Gabby*

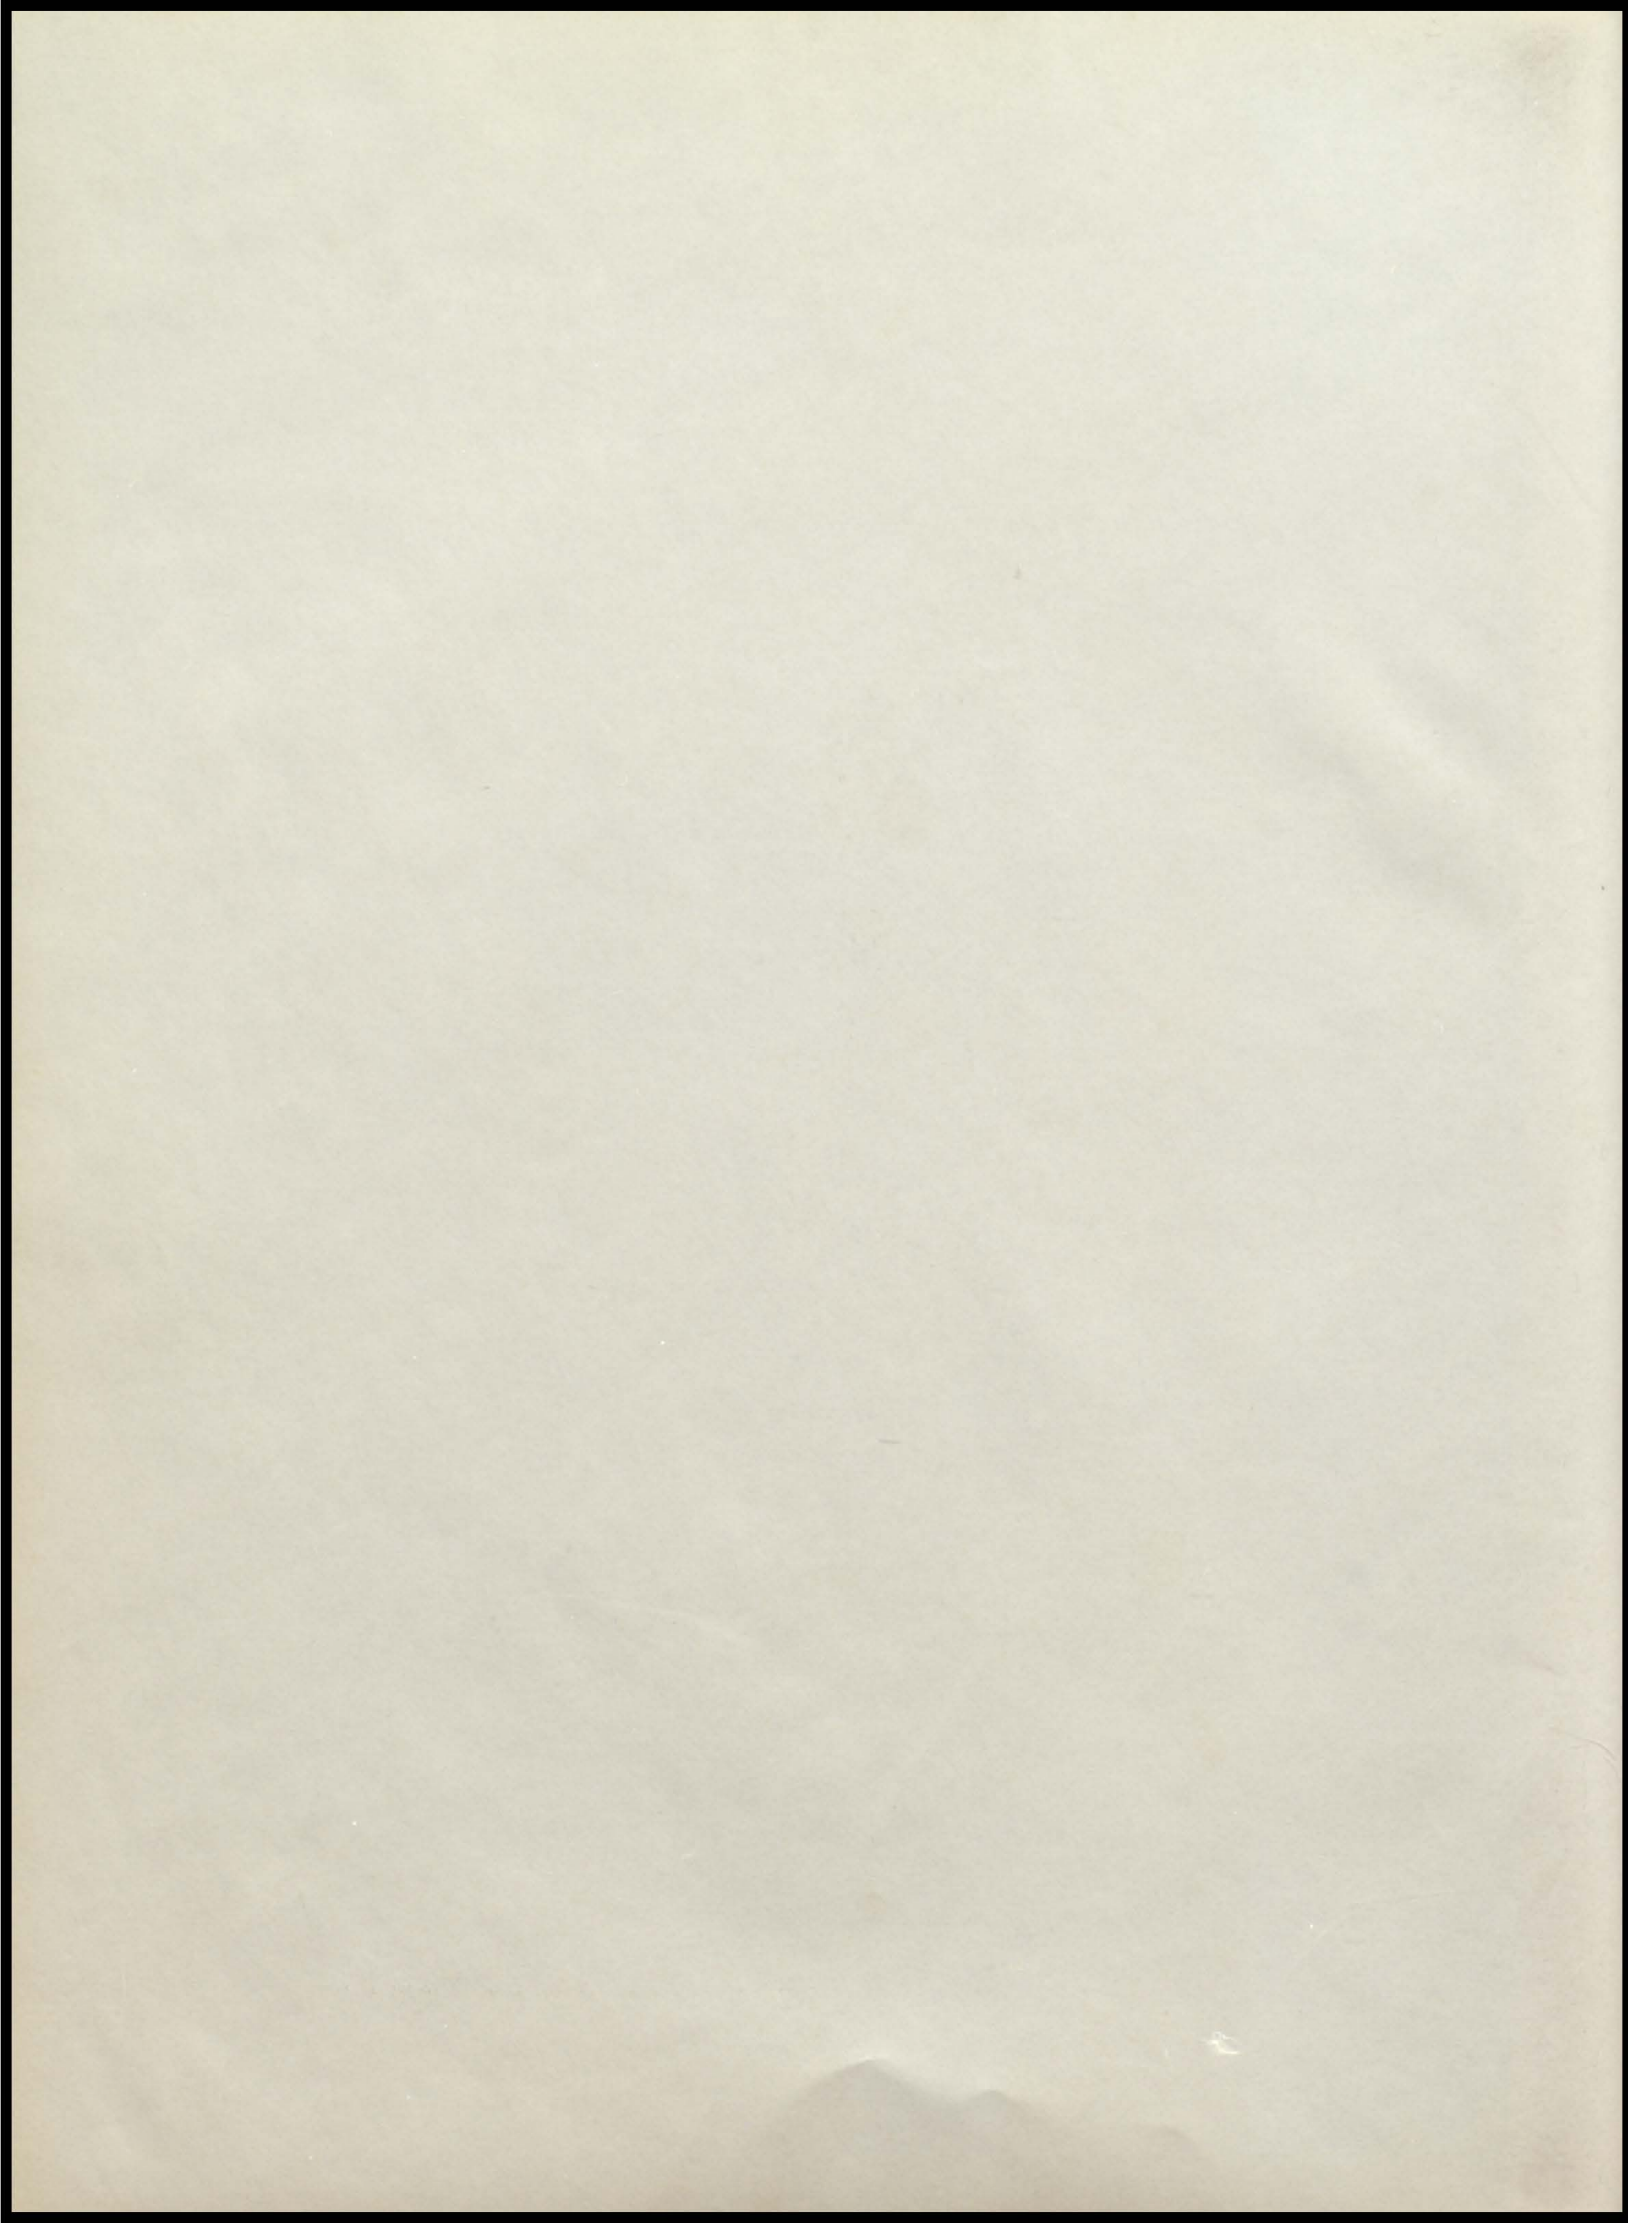

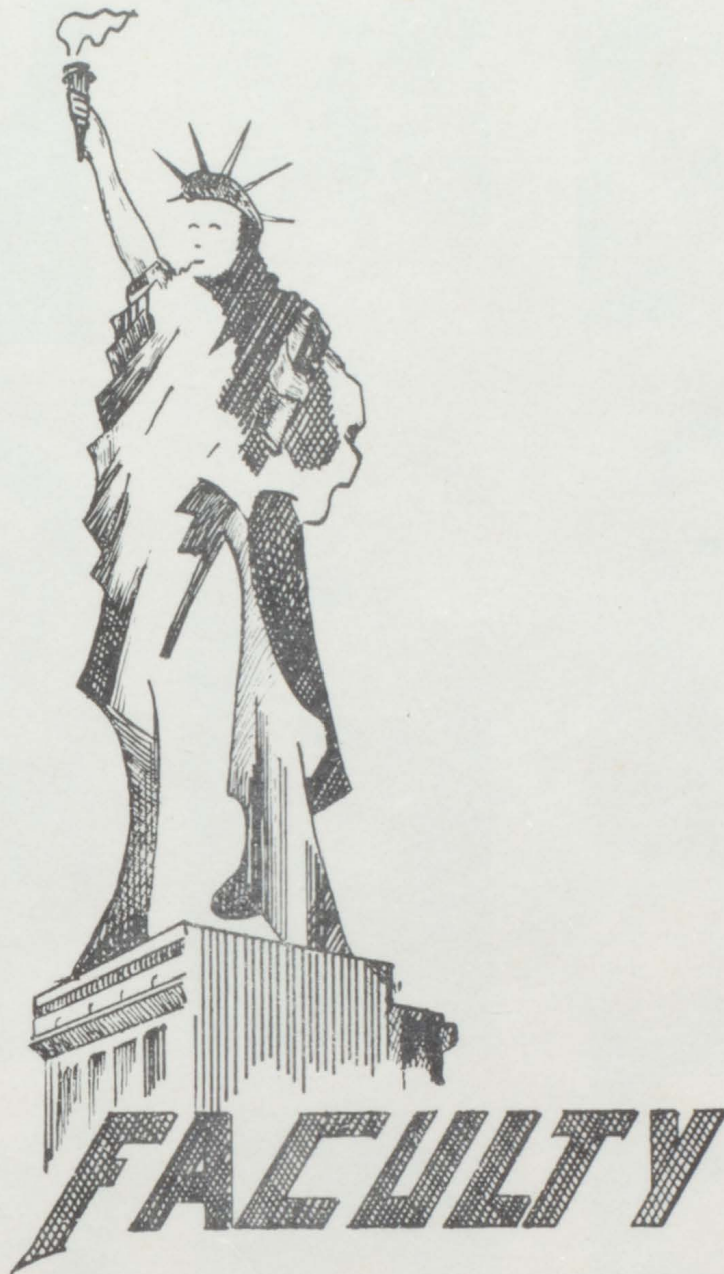

James Gabby, one of our outstanding Junior boys, received the honor of submitting the name for the first "Annual" ever published in Oquawka High School. The name which James submitted and which the student body selected as the best suited to appear on the cover of Oquawka's Yearbook was, "Riverside Echoes."

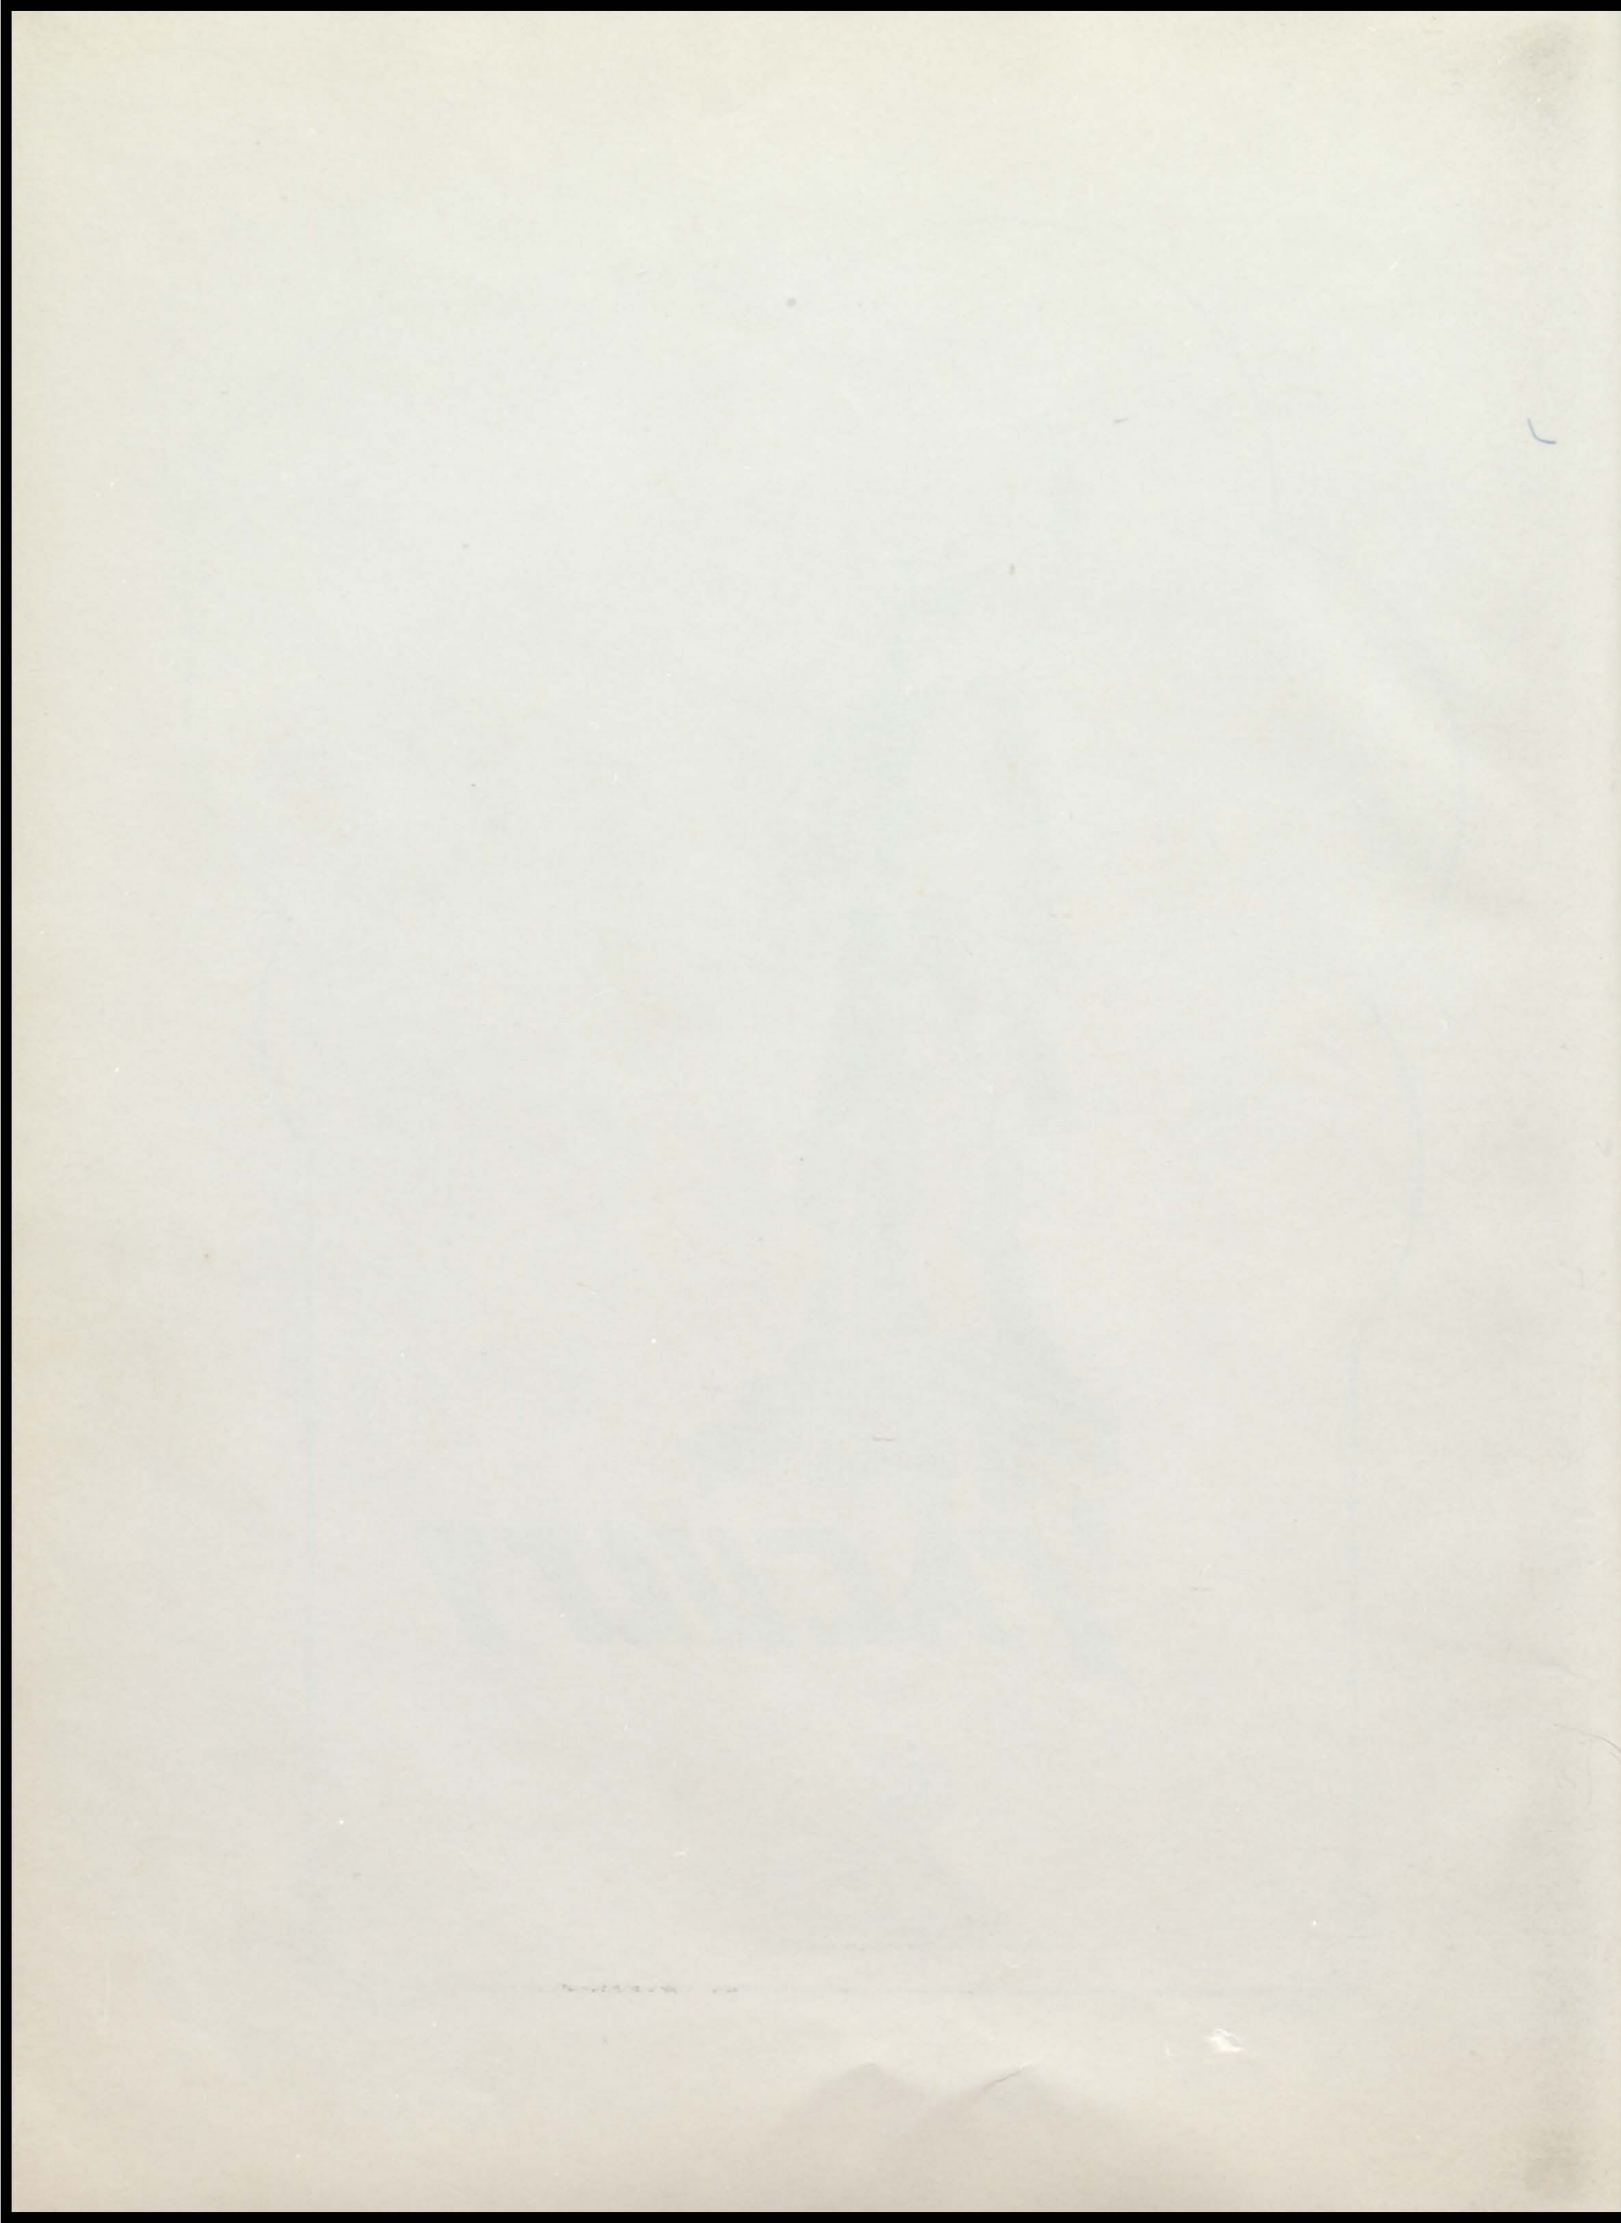

James is a quiet fellow, and we realize that the name turned in was from the depths of his thoughts.

He did a fine job, as he always does in his school work. James is an honor student, has been out for basketball for two years, out for oration last year, is on the Annual staff, and is Vice-president of the Student Council. We predict great things for him in the future.

Congratulations, James, and long may the name of "Riverside Echoes" appear on the cover of Oquawka High School's Yearbook.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

We've reached the place for which we've striven,
We've worked and delved, yet had our fun,
We're to the path and looked backward,
To view the path o'er which we've run.

Just four short years ago in the golden month of September, as timid "Freshies" we marched up to the Oquawka High School. A feeling of horror came over us and our knees began to shake. Truly, we felt like sheep that had strayed from the fold. But we were determined to overcome all obstacles no matter how great they may be. As we began to fit into the routine of high school life, we realized that there were certain advantages to our situation. Indeed in our four classrooms of busy pupils, each one a close rival of the other, our class spirit was born. Our faculty numbered only four and our class roll fifteen, so we soon were like so many children belonging to one family. Here we laid the foundation of friendships that we hope will be life-long.

Our life settled down to steady groves of study brightened here and there by a bit of social color in the way of class affairs. Then came our semester exams. Did we study! Yes—and we came triumphantly through this so called "ordeal". The second semester brought the never-to-be forgotten school picnic at Lake Storey, in Galesburg. So passed our first year. Summer vacation soon passed and our steps were again directed toward O. H. S. but not with the same fear and anxiety as the year before. Oh! what a glorious feeling it was! We were really grownup Sophomores, thinking we could do as we pleased. However, we realized that there were some who called themselves Juniors, having so much more privilege in conducting school affairs. Oh! how we longed to be the "Mighty Juniors". This year we gained four new pupils; Jerry Baldwin, Bonnie Ferris, Shirley Winblad, and Junior Blythe. We took our first class trip this year. Mr. Fish, our Biology teacher took us to Springfield, Lewistown, and New Salem. Then the end of a school year brought another school picnic at Lake Storey. The summer vacation passed as tho' it were on wings.

Now we were satisfied; we were Juniors. We thought we were the kings and queens of the school. But alas! We awoke to the realization that the real superiors were the "sophisticated Seniors". Those fearless creatures who so calmly chatted and laughed with the most cold hearted teachers. We were to be Juniors for a whole year, but what was that? For in every Junior's heart there is the desire to reach the highest pinnacle of material greatness, that is to be a Senior.

But we really had a very good year. We gained two new students, Bettie Ferris, and Earl McDavid. There were several class activities including, three dances, a box social, Junior-Senior Banquet, and a play. The banquet was given by the Juniors at the Aledo Country

THE LIFE OF A MAN

It is not the life of a man, but the life of a nation, that is the subject of this book. The life of a man is a thing of a moment, but the life of a nation is a thing of a century.

The life of a nation is a thing of a century, and it is the duty of every man to live it as well as he can. The life of a nation is a thing of a century, and it is the duty of every man to live it as well as he can. The life of a nation is a thing of a century, and it is the duty of every man to live it as well as he can.

The life of a nation is a thing of a century, and it is the duty of every man to live it as well as he can. The life of a nation is a thing of a century, and it is the duty of every man to live it as well as he can. The life of a nation is a thing of a century, and it is the duty of every man to live it as well as he can.

Club. In the play, "Beginner's Luck", all characters portrayed their part very well and the play was indeed, a great success. Then at last came summer vacation, and then September once more. Now we were to the place we've looked forward to for four years. We were "The Seniors", those marvelous beings who by a nod and a word transfixed the wide-eyed Freshmen, silenced the ambitious Sophomores, and made happy some hard working Junior. Our class sponsored a carnival, and a dance this fall and together with the Juniors, gave a home-coming dance at Christmas time. And now as our high school days draw to an end, we look back over four years and realize the happy days we've spent. It will be with a certain degree of reluctance that we leave O.H.S., the scene of our many happy high school days.

Father: "What are your school marks this month son?"

Morrissey: "Underwater, Dad."

Father: "What do you mean?"

Morrissey: "Below "C" level."

Lawrnie: "Do you know anything about boats?"

Blythe: "Sure I do. The bow is the front of the boat, the stern in the back, and the starboard is the right side."

Lawrnie: "OK", but where is the port?"

Blythe: "Oh, that's in a bottle in the icebox."

McDavid: "How about a little kiss?"

Simpson: "No, I have scruples."

McDavid: "Well, that's all right, I've been vaccinated."

They had been married the day before and this was their first breakfast. Mr. Pence ordered his in a low voice; among other things they both ordered eggs. A few moments later, the waiter returned. He leaned over Mrs. Pences' shoulder and asked: "How do you like your egg?" The bride seemed a little flustered for a moment then she answered: "Oh, I think he's all right."

Jack McDavid: "Things don't change much. Thousands of years ago, Greek maidens sat all evening and listened to a lyre. Today, many modern girls still do the same thing."

CLASS WILL

The Seniors are an intelligent bunch
And we've decided, following a hunch,
To leave the Juniors some much needed knowledge
When we leave school this spring for college.

Maxine Simpson will be a great loss
So she wills her blushes to Omar Dale Ross.
McKee has dimples and curly hair,
So he wills them to Don Adair.
Winblad has a talkative tongue to let,
So she will leave it for Claude Gillette.
A way with women has our Stephen,
He wills it to Gabby, that makes things even.
McClinton for her red hair didn't yearn,
She gladly wills it to Milton Jern.
Earl McDavid is blessed with a "line"
He wills it to Tee, which makes things fine.
Please don't think this gift is raw
Baldwin wills her height to Erma McGraw.
Clarence Huss is a quiet kid
He wills his silence to Robert Tidd.
Jack McDavid is really quite live,
He wills Betty Avery his ability to drive.
Junior Blythe is always so neat,
He wills Darlene Ferris his graceful feet.
Kenny Peterson so big, strong, and tall,
Wills Darlene McCabe his slow southern drawl.
Morrissey drives a Ford V8,
He wills it to Heath for his heavy date.
Melba Richmond has weight to spare,
She wills it to Jones, think that's fair?
Billy Simpson really can dance a jig,
With McOlgan that should go over big.
"Dish pan hands" has our Bettie Mae,
She wills them to Swann in her big hearted way.
Junior Ricketts, so fat, short, and mean,
Wills his disposition to good old Eugene.
Bonnie always has her lessons far in advance
She wills them to Hanson, who'd much rather dance.
Dishwater blonde hair has our Bette Jean
She wills it to Schell, don't you think that's keen?

Take these gifts, you Class of 43',
And remember, next year, Seniors you will be.
Carry on our colors, uphold the School,
Work hard, and always remember the Golden Rule.

CLASS PROPHECY

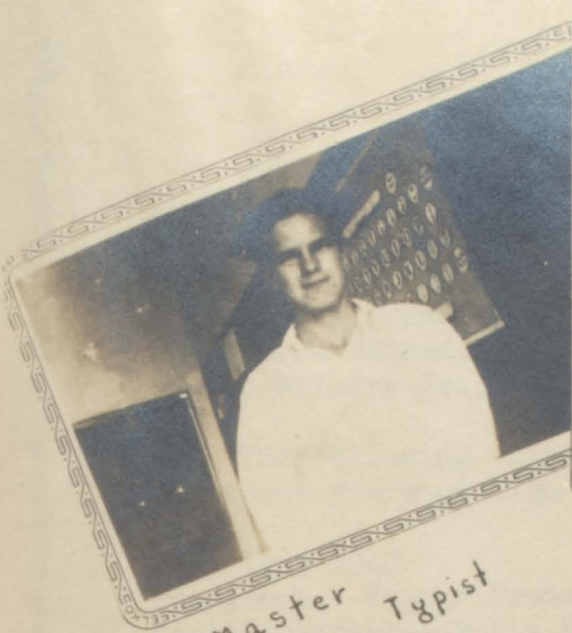

One fine morning in May, 1960, the postman staggered up to the home of Grandma and Grandpa Pence. In his bag were letters from the far corners of the world. Grandma dropped her knitting and called Grandpa, and together they started to open their mail and catch up on the doings of the Class of '42. The first letter was from Jerry Baldwin. "Why just listen to this", exclaimed Grandma. "Jerry has just received a medal for being the fastest bottle capper in the Heinz Catsup factory where she is working. I always knew Jerry would amount to something! And don't you think it's nice of her husband to stay home and take care of little Junior?" But Grandpa was anxiously tearing open the next letter which was postmarked New York. "Oh, here's an autographed picture of Jr. Ricketts", he said. "He says in his letter that he has just signed a contract to star in another Broadway Musical, and look, he's sent us tickets to a private box! Isn't that nice of Jr.?" "He always was so thoughtful of his elders." Grandma interrupted to ask, "Who on earth do we know at the Burlington Hotel?" She ripped open the letter and answered her own question. "Why it's from little Junior Blythe! He says that he has just been employed as an elevator boy and he wants us to come over some day and he will take us for a ride. "Won't that be nice?" Grandpa could not hear her though. He was chuckling over the letter from Earl McDavid, who has just founded an Old Ladies' Home and his letter was full of his trials and tribulations. "Grandma", asked Grandpa, "Wasn't Earl the one who was quite a ladies' man?" "Yes", replied Gram, "He ought to feel right at home there too. An old bachelor like him would appreciate feminine company. But listen to what Bette Pirtle says about her job at the Veteran's Hospital. Whenever they start telling her how they licked the Japs, she just tells them how she managed to get the best of Jerry Hull in all their pre-marital disputes. "Grandma, look! A letter from the White House. For heaven's sakes! It's from Billie Morrissey, private secretary to the President. Miss Layman, his commercial teacher, once told me that he was the most OUTSTANDING member of her shorthand and typing classes." "He's such an up and coming man, next thing you know he'll be president", said Gram. "And listen to this, Billy Simpson writes that he is just coming along fine with his book reviewing job. At the present he is reviewing Treasure Island." "Well now here's a letter from the "Hold Me Tight Girdle Co", cried Grandpa. "Who do you suppose—Why, it's from Kenny Peterson, General Manager. He says that he's sending us a sample of his product in the next mail. Ha! Ha! what a joke! Pete always was such a practical joker." "My, but we're getting a lot of presents", said Grandma. "Bettie Ferris is sending us a box of her Chocolate Covered Animal Crackers from her factory. Wasn't she the girl that always ate so much candy? No wonder she owns a candy factory." "Well, land a goshen! Here's a letter from good old Jack McDavid", cried Grandpa. "He writes that he is just opening a dancing school. He specializes in square dancing. Why do you suppose it's for blonds only?" "I'm sure I wouldn't know", answered Grandma, "I've been reading what Geraldine McClinton says about her Freckle Removing Compound. She says she discovered it one day during a chemistry experiment and was never so excited in her life." Grandma went delving into the pile of letters and came upon one from Wisconsin. "It's from Lawrence McKee", she said, "he writes that his Lazy Bett Dairy now supplies milk for the city of Perdunk. He's thinking about raising ducks, too." "Why here's a letter from South Carolina. It's from Clarence Huss. He says that he is going to night school to study auctioneering." "My goodness, he was such a quiet boy. What on earth do you suppose came over him?" "I don't know", replied Grandpa. "He says that he wants to be a famous tobacco auctioneer like Andre Barush. Listen to this", chuckled Grandpa, "this letter is from Steve Ohler who has just landed a job with the Chicago Tribune writing the 'Advice to the Lovelorn Column'. Steve always was pretty well versed on that subject." "And here's a letter from Bonnie Ferris", said Grandma. "You remember that quiet little girl don't you? She's Professor of Public Speaking at Harvard University. Isn't this surprising! Shirley Winblad says she is a chorus girl at the Stork Club. Sherman Billingly says that he would be just lost without her." "Wait till you hear this one from Melba Richmond. She's working in a laundry, putting the starch in men's shirt collars. She's had a great disappointment due to a man and that is the nearest she can come to choking a male." Together Grandma and Grandpa grabbed for the last letter--Maxine Simpson's. She said that she was in readiness for a full house this season at the 'Caroling' Dude Ranch in Texas, and extended a cordial invitation to them to visit for several weeks. "Now isn't that swell of Maxine", said Grandpa. "Let's go! Yippee! Ride 'em Cowboy. Bang! Bang!" "Grandpa!", exclaimed Grandma, "Act your age! Shame on you! You don't see Mr. Binnion acting like a six year old." "Oops, I forgot myself for a minute." "Well, see that you don't forget again. Why, do you know, you sounded just like the Oquawka High School students after the last bell had rung on a Friday afternoon." "Oh, let's put these in our Memory Box now, Gram, and go see how our new grandson is today."

During our Freshman year, we had a pot luck supper and all the teachers of the school were invited. We enjoyed ourselves after supper by playing games and dancing.

Among the most interesting things we did during our Freshman year, was to go to the Conservatory at the Burlington High School and look through the large telescope. We saw the four moons of Jupiter, the rings around Saturn, the craters of the moon, and many other sights.

In our Sophomore year, we held a weiner roast for the Freshman at the old covered bridge, south of town. We gathered around the fire, sang, and told jokes.

Coach Fish, our Biology teacher, took us on field trips. On May 3, 1941, he took us on a trip to Springfield, Illinois, where we visited Lincoln's Tomb, the Capitol, the Art Museum, The Indian Mounds at Louistown, and many other places of interest. We enjoyed the educational trip very much.

We are proud of our boys, who took active part in basketball, softball, and track. The girls have an active part in the girls' athletics.

We have lost six members in our three years. Ralph Link, discontinued school at the end of his Freshman year; Ethel Boughton and Gertrude McCabe discontinued school at the end of their Sophomore year. Ethel is working Rock Island at the present and Gertrude is married. Richard Gailbraith moved to Burlington in his Sophomore year. Dale Ross and Harold Lister discontinued school a few weeks after they had started their Junior year. We Juniors look forward to having a successful Senior year.

SOPHOMORES

The Sophomores entered Oquawka High School as Freshmen in 1940. Twenty-three young boys and girls all looked forward to "getting places" in our class, and although we were marked as "Green Freshies" and quite often reminded of it, we went right on.

At the first meeting we held, the following class officers were elected:

President - - - - -	Donald Swann
Vice-president- - - - -	Lorene McDavid
Sec. & Treasurer- - - - -	Dick Shorts
Class Reporter- - - - -	Marianna Nesbit

The first of our activities was a weiner roast. We spent most of the year becoming accustomed to High School life, and the duties of a successful student. We found our Freshman year a very interesting one.

Five students did not return for the Sophomore year; however, three new students enrolled; Helen Stokes, Elizabeth Curtis, and Lewis Adams.

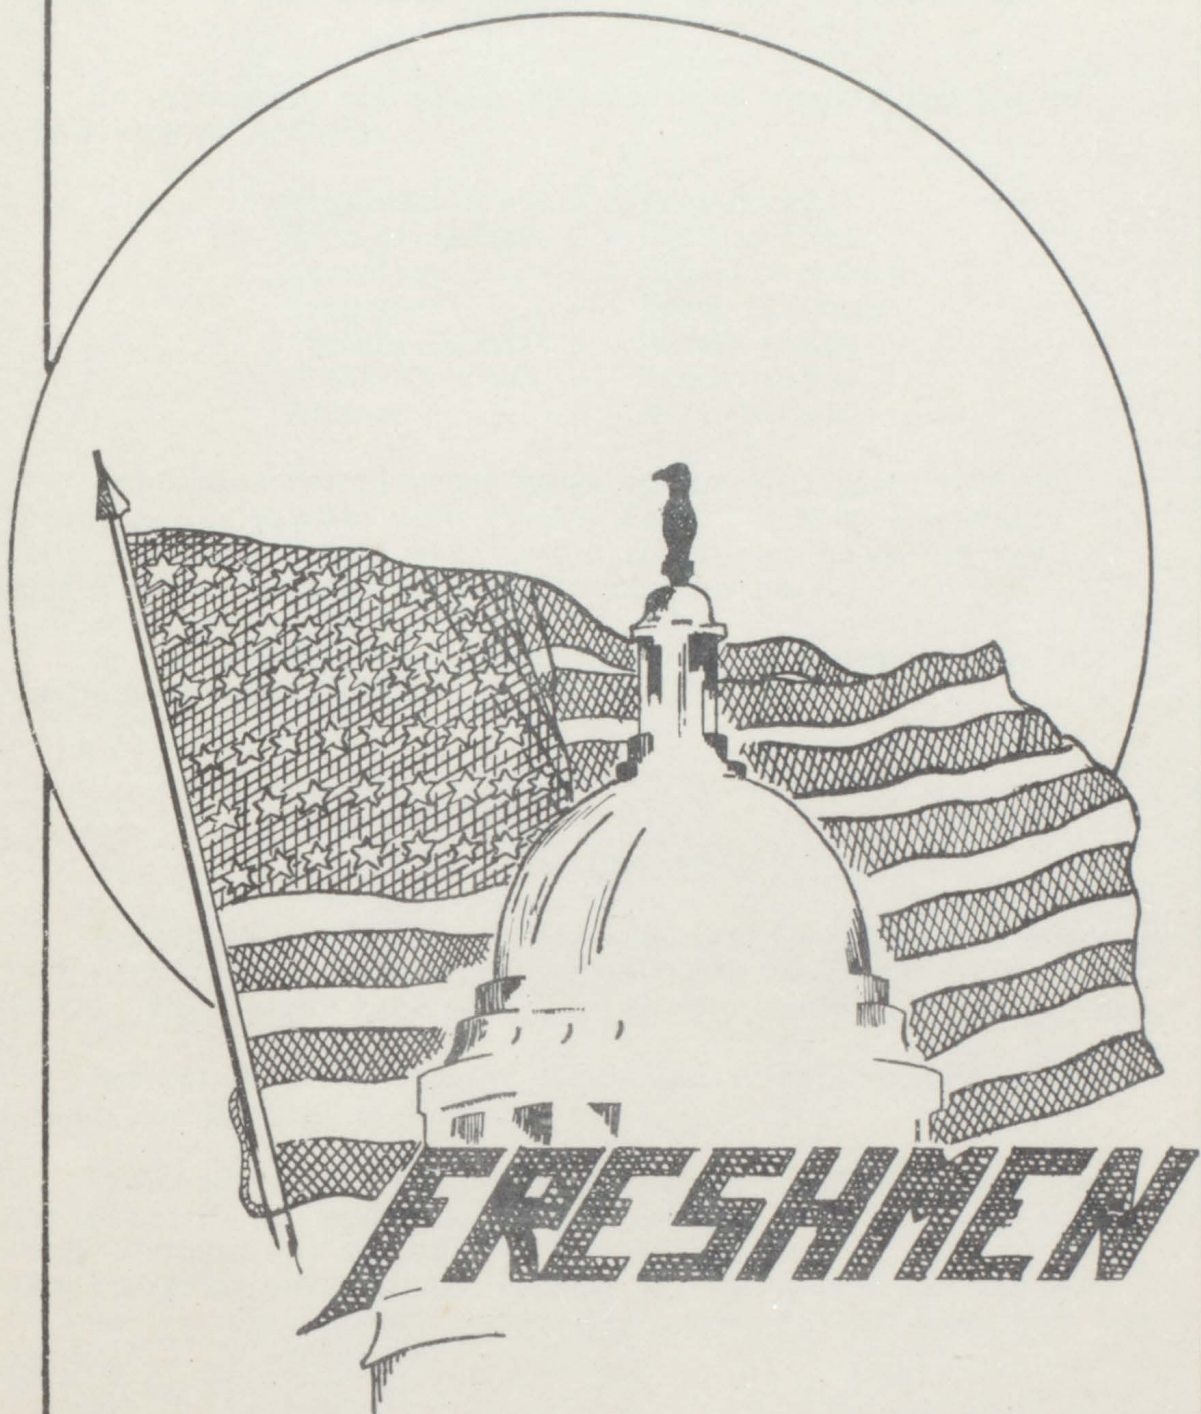

Class officers elected for the second year were:

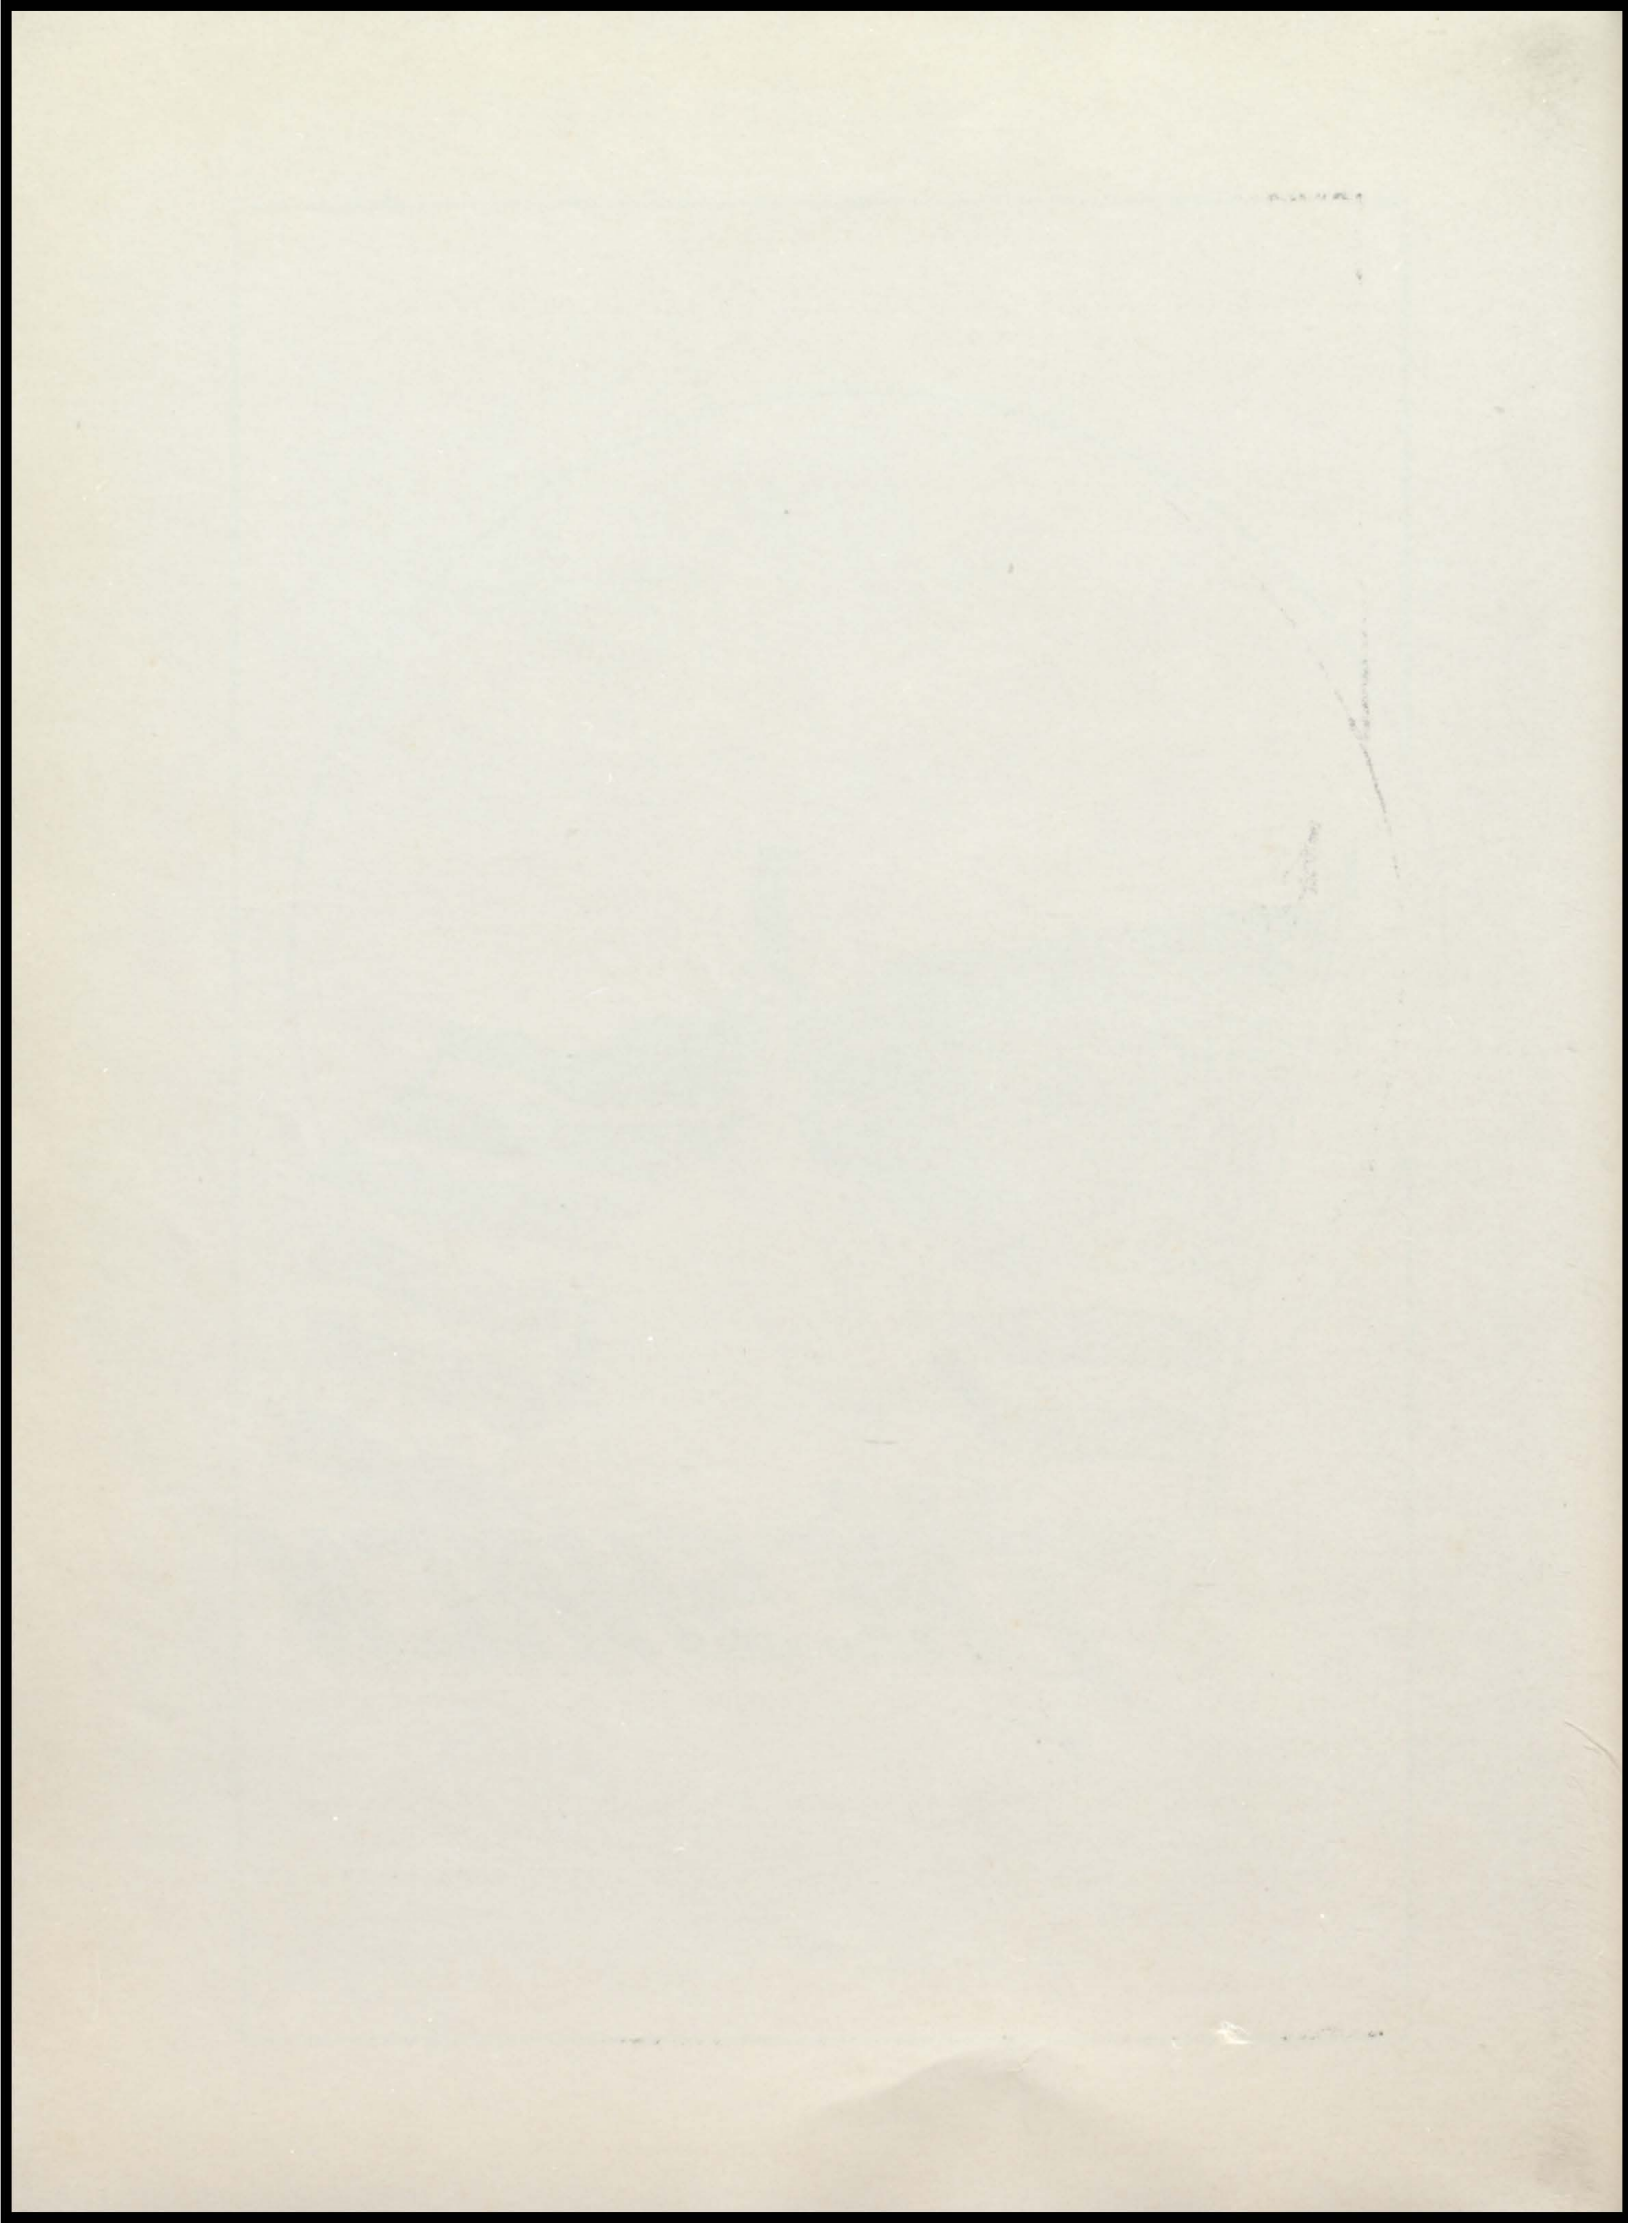

President - - - - -	Marjorie Simpson
Vice-president- - - - -	Donald Swann
Secretary - - - - -	Marlin Blythe
Treasurer - - - - -	Lewis Adams
Class Reporter- - - - -	Ralph Chapin
Advisor - - - - -	Clifford Pence
Student Council - - - - -	Kenneth Huss

The first of the year found us very enthusiastic over a party we were planning for the Freshmen, followed by an initiation. Both were a great success.

We, the Sophomore class, feel that we are progressing and are becoming more interested, each year in our High School work and our activities. In two years we will graduate but our main interest now is to do our work well and prepare ourselves to enter into the shifting sea of life.

Did you ever see---
A cake walk?
A fire truck?
A doll dance?
A stocking run?
A horse Fly?
A nail file?
A hair pin?

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

At last our dreams are realized! We are in high school, launched on the great river of knowledge, but the way is perilous, the current swift, and some of us may be lost on the way.

In September, our class officers were elected and the results were as follows:

President - - - - - Mary Morris
Vice-president- - - Stanley Frank
Secretary - - - - - Marcella McCabe
Treasurer - - - - - Betty Richmond
Student Council - - Robert Finch
Class Reporter- - - Gracie Ditto
Advisor - - - - - Mrs. Binnion

Candidates for King and Queen of the Fall Carnival were voted on, the results were Stanley Frank for King and Gracie Ditto for Queen. Both were unable to attend, so we elected Robert Finch for King and Mary Morris for Queen.

An all-school skating party was held on November 13th at the Monmouth Skating Rink.

THE LIBRARY

One of Oquawka's former prominent citizens, James W. Gordon left our school a great number of valuable reference and fiction books. These books have proved to be very useful to the students.

Our school receives many weekly and monthly magazines which are at the disposal of the pupils.

There are tables and chairs in the library and a good lighting system so the students can have the use of the library during study periods. At any time in our library you may find our capable librarian, Miss Bettie Ferris, who has helped the students to select their books and gather references for the last year and one half.

There are approximately 507 reference books, 291 fiction and 81 encyclopedias now in the library. The books are classified under the Dewey Decimal System. The charging system used is the Individual book card.

Although the library is not entirely up to date it is a valuable asset to Oquawka High School.

STUDENT COUNCIL

A new governing body was introduced into Oquawka Township High School this year. It was a Student Council, composed of the President and two members from each class, with Mr. Forrest W. Binnion as the Advisor.

This body was organized on September 17, 1941, with Jerry Baldwin as President; James Gabby as Vice-president; and Maxine Simpson as Secretary-Treasurer. A Constitution was adopted, and the duties of the Council were pointed out by Mr. Binnion.

During the year, we have been asked to discuss and decide certain important questions which had to do with the well-being of our school. We were all very inexperienced, this being our first year for a Student Council, but we tried to think our problems through carefully, and make wise decisions.

It was decided that our organization was to sponsor the first Annual ever to be published in Oquawka High School.

Carefully selected students were nominated and elected to the Annual Staff, and it is believed that one of the successful services of the Student Council, will be the presentation to the public of "Riverside Echoes".

My dear Sir,
I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 14th inst. in relation to the matter of the
and in reply to inform you that the same has been forwarded to the proper authorities for their consideration.

The Club consists of 24 members and Mrs. Pence, the Home Economics teacher.

The first meeting was a pot luck supper, held in the Home Economics Room. The concluding meetings were held in the homes of members of the club. The meetings concerned problems and social activities that are present in every home. The Club sponsored the all-school Christmas party, organized a Junior Red Cross, and will entertain the mothers at a tea and style show near the close of the school year.

Most of the members hope to be homemakers, and the club work will prove very valuable.

SOFTBALL

Oquawka's Softball team for the year of 1941-42 was exceptionally good. The team competed in eleven games, without a single defeat.

The only mishap of the year was at Ferris, when Taylor Swann suffered a head injury. Although he recovered rapidly, he did not play for the remainder of the season, and Everett Heath replaced him as catcher.

Taking No Chances

An insurance salesman applied at a Canadian recruiting office to enlist.

"I suppose you want a commission, said the officer in charge.

"No thanks", was the reply, "I'm such a poor shot I'd rather work on a straight salary."

The Student Body of Oquawka High - 1914

Lutheran Church - Oquawka, Ill.

HISTORY OF OQUAWKA HIGH SCHOOL

Our first Oquawka Township High School opened in the fall of 1914 in the old German Church building, south of town. About fifty years before that time, the building was known as the Allan Dale Seminary and some of our older residents attended private school there. Mrs. Florence Patterson tells us that she studied German there for a short time and at this time the Budshall brothers were in charge. They ran the school up until the Civil War when it is thought that they were called into service. The minister was the only teacher. He talked to his pupils in the large assembly room in the church. He and his family lived in the downstairs of the church.

The first year, only three years of High School were offered. Prof. Thomas Gallager was in charge. Prior to that time, the first two years of high school were offered at the grade school, with the seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth grades in the same room under the instruction of one teacher.

Class periods were twenty or twenty-five minutes each and were held in the Assembly hall with the students sitting on the old church benches by the teachers desk, while the rest of the pupils tried to study.

In the fall of 1915, a four year course was offered with one additional teacher. A course in Home Economics was also added. Our equipment consisted of two oil stoves with removable ovens, a cupboard, eight tables and two sewing machines. Our water came from the school pump near the back door. Two class rooms were added this year, one also serving as a laboratory, with the Home Economics room and boys' and girls' separate cloak rooms. The entire first floor was occupied. These rooms were formerly the living quarters of the minister.

As the school was located near the edge of town, nearly everyone brought their dinner.

In these first three years no active part was taken in athletic or declamatory contests. The boys played ball in an adjoining pasture, also occupied by a few friendly cows. A stile was erected over the fence which separated it from the school. It was for the convenience of the pupils and was the first and only stile that I have ever seen.

In those first three years we had two thriving Literary Societies, namely "The Aeolian" and "The Utopian". The school was divided in two sides with a captain at the head of each and each month each side presented a program. The material for these programs were left entirely up to the Society, the only requirement being that a debate on some subject be given. Other numbers were dialogues, drills, readings, music, or anything we could find. Visitors were allowed and so many came on these Friday afternoons that there was often standing room only.

The first class to graduate from the four year course consisted of five girls and two boys. Graduation was held in the Opera House, a standing custom. Each graduate had to write his or her own essay, memorize it and deliver it on this night.

In later years, three and finally four teachers carried on, and a more active part was taken in sports. The Opera House and Kokos' Hall were rented by the school board for basketball games and several firsts in declamation were won in the county meets.

HEAVENLY THOUGHT

Two old grads who had not seen each other in ten years discovered that each had been married in that time.
"What kind of a woman did you get, Bill?" asked Joe.
"She's an angel, Joe, that's what she is."
"Boy, you sure are lucky. Mine is still living."

A mugwump is a bird that sits on the fence with his mug on one side and his wump on the other.

TONGUE TWISTER

Tongue twisters have always been amusing, but we have one that we guarantee will send any person goofy. Just try to master the following: The skunk sat on a stump. The skunk thunk the stump stunk and the stump thunk the skunk stunk.

These things, however, are not the only ones which are of importance in the study of the history of the world. The study of the history of the world is a study of the human mind, and of the human mind in its relation to the world. It is a study of the human mind in its relation to the world, and of the human mind in its relation to the world.

BASKETBALL SQUAD 1941-42

Everett Heath '42 Guard

This was the first year as a varsity player for Everett. He is a good defensive player and also good on offense.

Lawrence McKee '42 Guard-Forward

Lawrnie was one of Oquawka's outstanding athletes. He played guard the first semester and played forward the second semester. He is an exceptionally good player and no one was better fitted to captain this year's squad.

Teddy Jones '42 Center

"Teddy" didn't join the squad until the second semester. He has quite a collection of shots and was high point man.

Herman R. Blythe '42 Forward

Junior, the fastest man on Oquawka's team, is small but he is a big threat to our opponents. He has a good eye for the basket.

Kenneth Peterson '42 Center-Guard

Kenny played Center for the first semester but when Jones was annexed to the team he moved back to guard. Kenny was a good defensive player.

Eugene Brownawell '43 Center-Forward

Brownie was a good defensive player and had a very good eye for the basket. His speciality was a one hand push shot.

John A. Ricketts '42 Forward

Junior was outstanding on offense, scoring several points for Oquawka's reserves.

Wilbert Tee '43 Forward

Wilbert's speed and cunning ways made him the player that he was. Although "Ike" was small, he had a good eye for the basket and scored heavily for Oquawka's reserves.

Allan McOlgan '43 Forward

Allan played a good game of basketball for Oquawka. He had a good eye for the basket and outstanding rebounding ability.

Billie Morrissey '42 Guard

In Billie, Oquawka reserves had a guard with that fighting spirit so required to win games. Billie was a good defensive player and was able to get the rebounds.

In Adams, Slover, Finch, Bushong, Gabby, Gillette, Oquawka will have a team worth looking forward to. Most of these fellows are Sophomores and have two years left in which to gain experience.

TRACK

Track is a minor sport at Oquawka and at this stage of the season, only a prediction can be made on that branch of athletics.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

Some people might think that girls do not need to have physical education, but it is just as important for girls as for boys. We think when you get through reading what all we do in physical education you will see why it is important.

At the beginning of the period, our teacher, Miss Layman, usually gives the most unwelcome call for exercises, "On toes, arms above head, and touch floor without bending the knees." Games hold our interest.

We went on hikes the first of the year, played basketball, and are planning to play volleyball, badminton, softball, and various other games. A few times during gym, we had dancing instructions and learned the La Conga which was used as a novelty number at the Homecoming Dance, Dec. 20.

All girls dress in blue suits, white socks, and white tennis shoes. All are expected to dress and take showers. Any violation results in points being taken from grades. Those taking gym are:

FRESHMAN: Gracie Ditto, Louise Hall, Marcella McCabe, Glenna McDavid, Frances McGraw, Mary Morris, Betty Richmond, and Marjorie Thompson.

SOPHOMORES: Elizabeth Curtis, Bettie Huss, Myldred Link, Darlyne McClinton, Lorene McDavid, Marianna Nesbit, Rosie Parrish, Marjorie Simpson, Helen Stokes, and Marjorie Young.

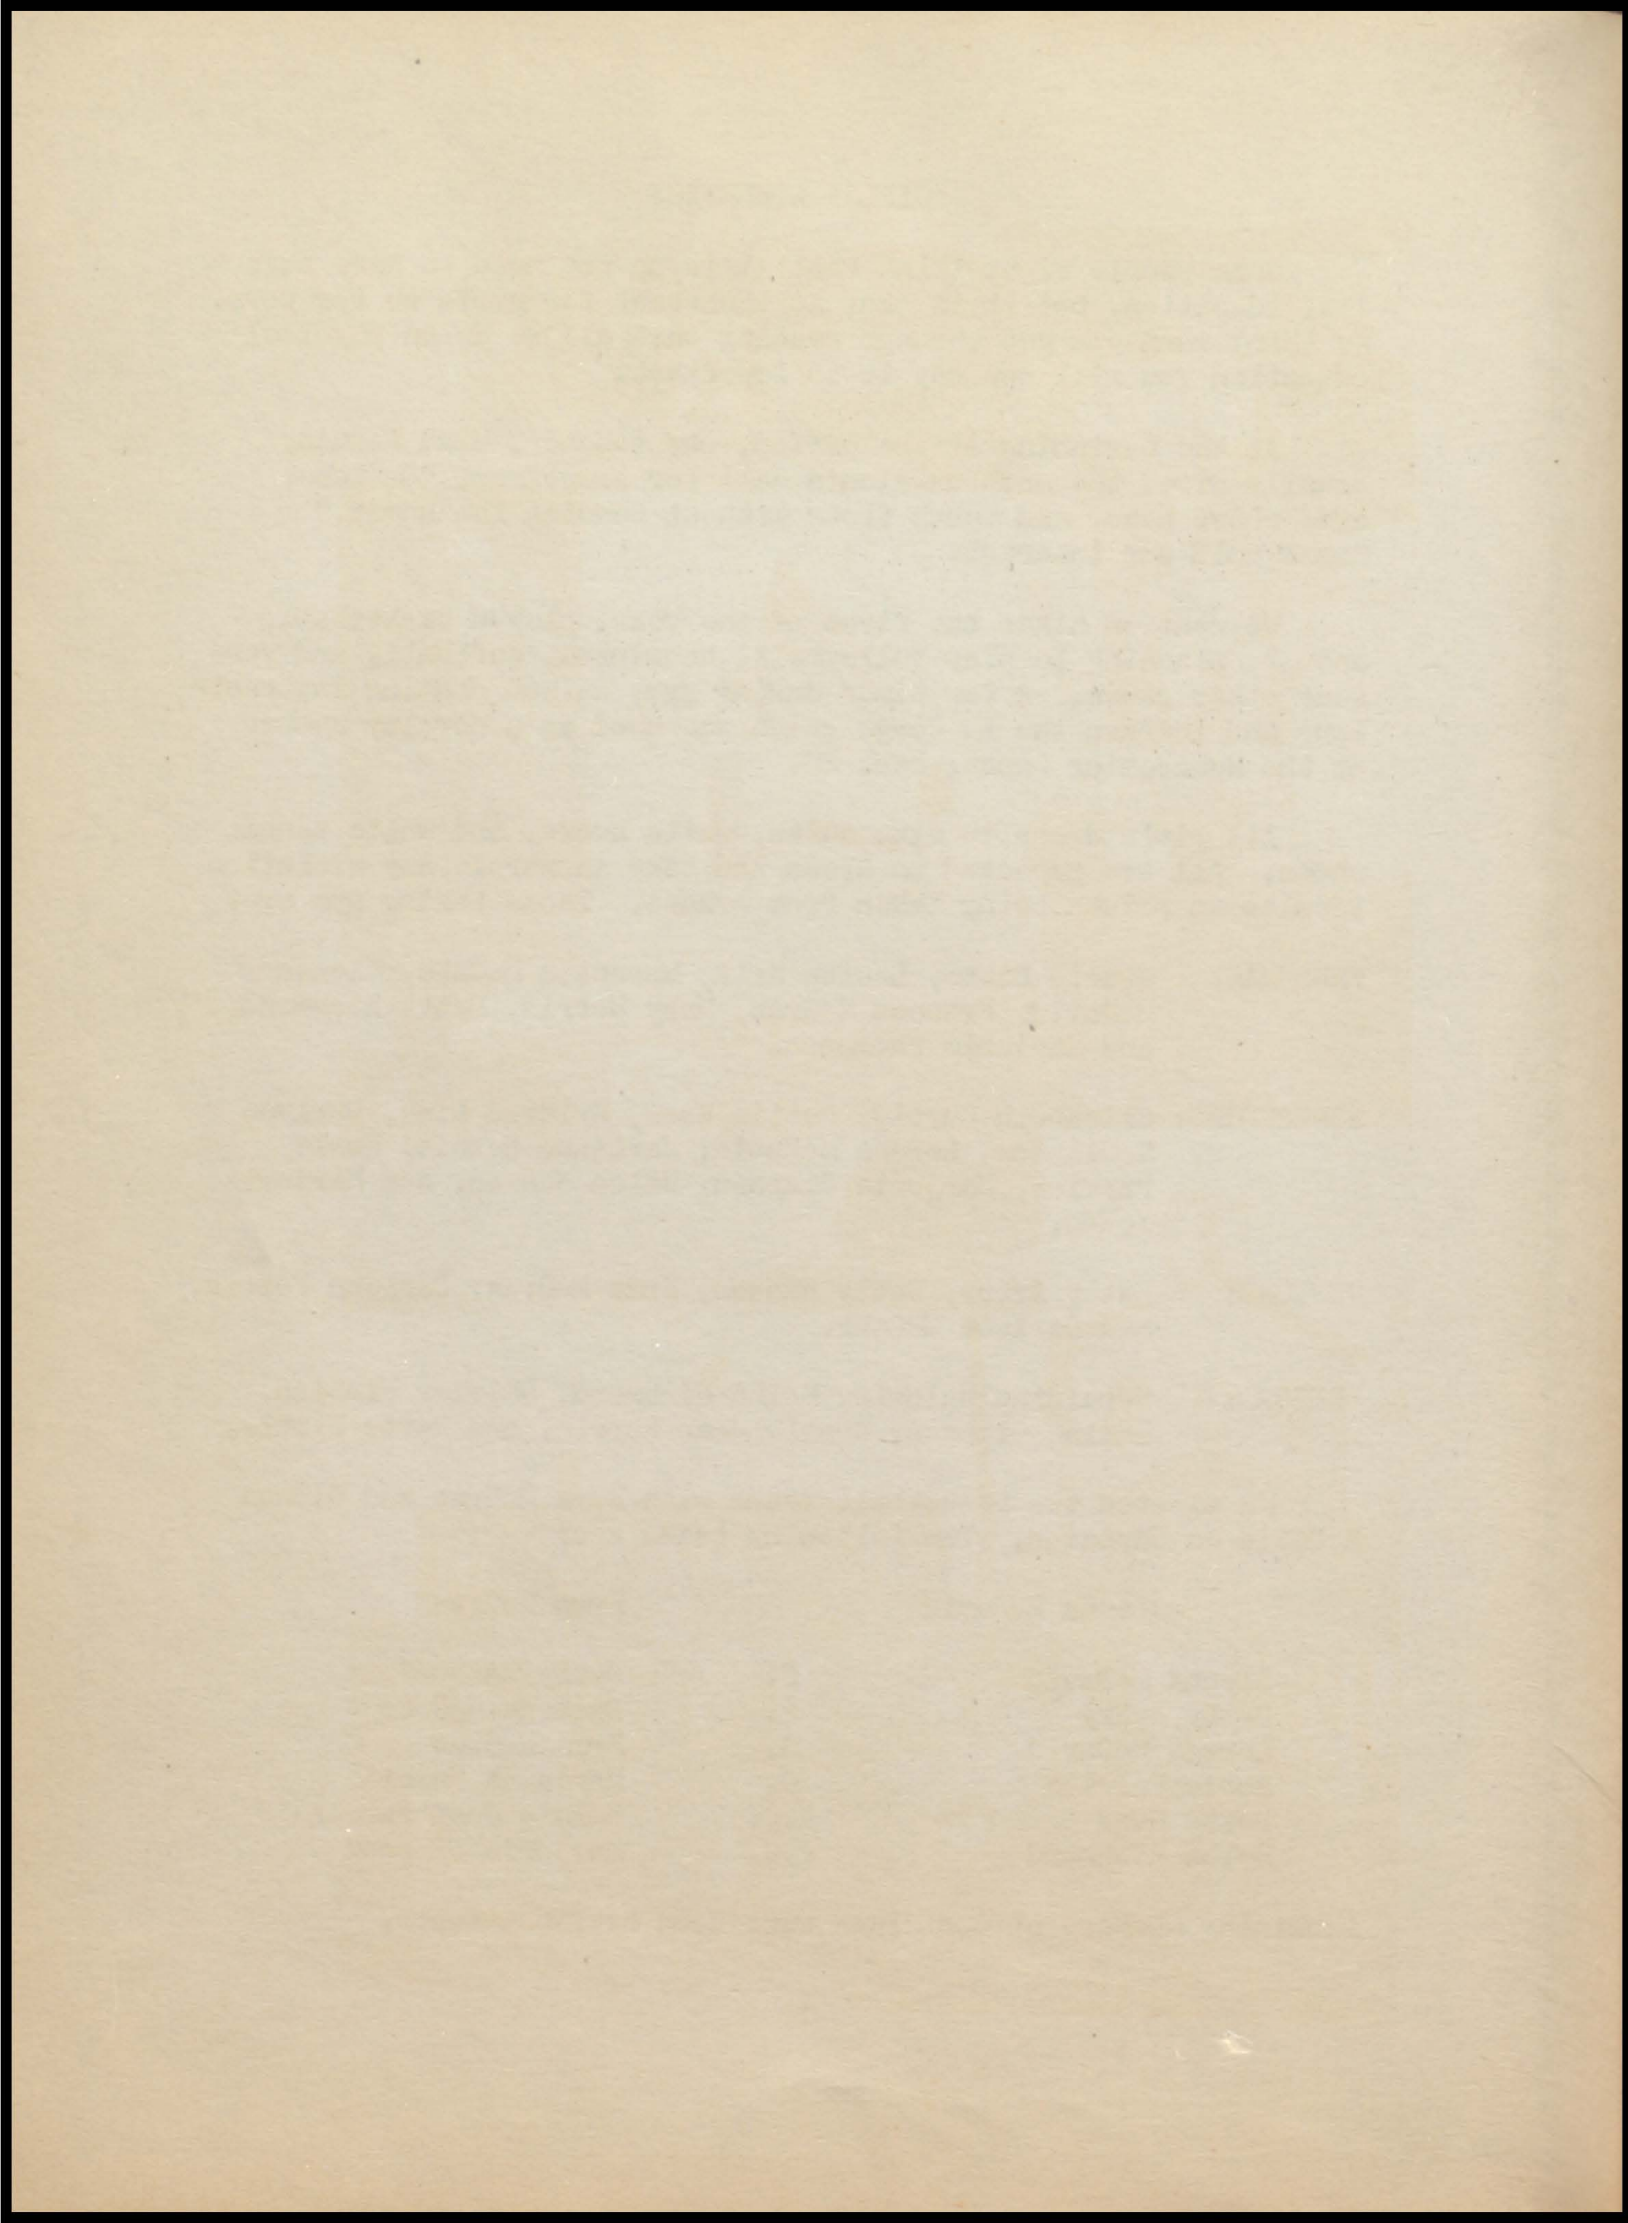

JUNIORS: Betty Avery, Betty Hanson, Erma McGraw, Darlene Ferris, and Darlene McCabe.

SENIORS: Geraldine Baldwin, Melba Richmond, Shirley Winblad, Maxine Simpson, Bonnie Jean Ferris, and Bette Pirtle.

We elected two basketball teams with Erma McGraw and Glenna McDavid as Captains. The following teams are:

Glenna McDavid		Erma McGraw
Glenna McDavid	F.	Betty Hanson
Betty Avery	F.	Darlene McCabe
Lorene McDavid	G.	Erma McGraw
Rosie Parrish	G.	Marianna Nesbit
