PROPHECY

In the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-seven, as we cruise down the Mississippi River, our boat comes to anchor in a small picturesque town called Oquawka. A number of people are going aboard and among the first are five children. They are talking about some sort of reunion. I believe they said it was the reunion of the Class of 1947.

A tall heavy set man in an admiral's uniform is going ashore. They say this used to be his old stamping grounds. It is none other than our old friend, Dick Slover. Dick recently took his mother on a trip around the world. He and his wife (Oh, yes! Dick got married years ago) have made quite a success of their cabin cruiser. She is a raving brunette whom he met in Brooklyn. (You know these sailors.) They don't have to worry about a housing shortage since they have plenty of room on their cruiser.

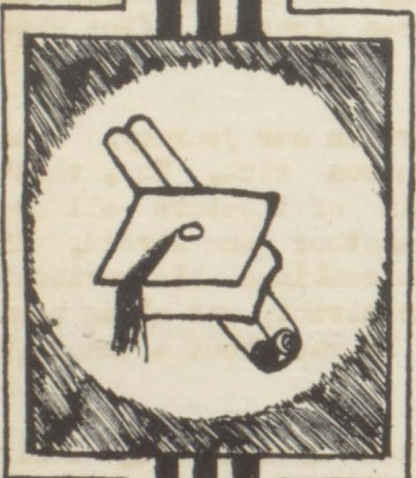

Everyone has come aboard and is settling down for the cruise. I see Joan Randall, who just came on deck loaded down with luggage of all sorts. Of course, she has a huge wardrobe because of her career. Yes, Joan has made quite a name for herself. (Some "career girl" eh?) Among all her talents, her drawing is most prominent. She has developed her artistic ability, and they tell me she got the inspiration from a play in which she acted when she was a senior in O. H. S. She also writes songs as a hobby.

Another gal of '47 who has her name in lights is Pearl Thompson, alias Bunny BaDilly. She is the song bird of the U. S. now, singing with a well-known band leader. She changed her name in 1950 when she made her debut with that old timer, Tommy Dorsey. Rumors say she is going to settle down soon. You know Pearl is really a home-loving girl in spite of all her worldly airs. They say she also does a little drawing on the side. Last week she did a cover for the famous magazine, Downbeat.

My but those children are bothersome. From the moment they got on, they have been cutting up like altogether normal children might do. (But whose children are normal now days?)

The boat draws away from the shore and we start on our journey. I notice someone leaning over the railing. He seems to be sea sick. Why, that's Bill Essex, the typical modern play boy. He runs a chain of theaters all over the U. S. and some say he is going to Europe to start another one abroad. His brother, Jimmy, used to be in partnership with him. Jim combined his burlesque show with Billy's musicals. What a combination! The partnership got along beautifully until they had a quarrel. (You know brothers!) It was about a beautiful actress in their show! (You know Billy.)

Those five noisy children seem to have quieted down a bit. Louise Butcher, who hadn't ever seen them before, went over and made friends with them at once. My she certainly has a way with children. Of course she would. After teaching school for fifteen years she has decided to specialize in child's care. She teaches school at Prim Posie's Proper Primary, in Poka Polopee.

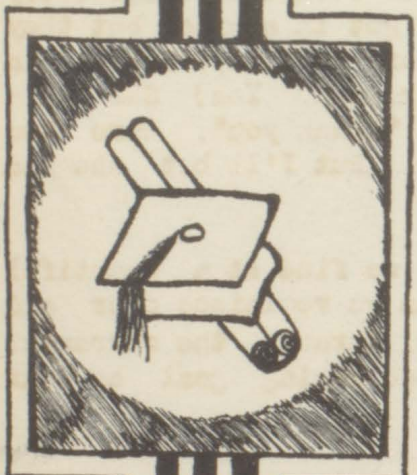

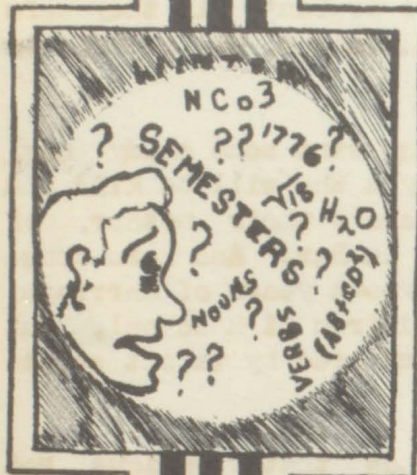

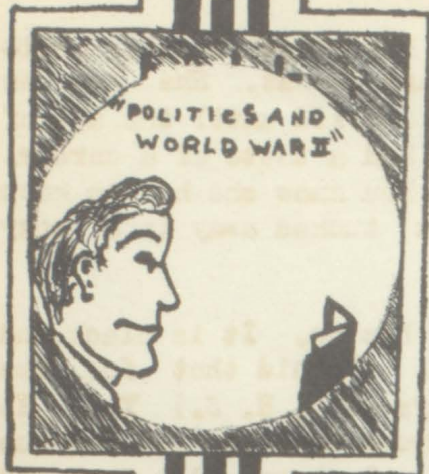

See that blonde over there. She's celebrating her tenth wedding anniversary. 'Yes! You guessed it. That is the former Barbara Thomas. She had so much fun in her early 20's that she couldn't bear to get married until the age of 29. After traveling all over and going to college she had a taste of a career. Then she went back to school and took a course in music. You know she has to keep up with all her musically inclined friends. Now she is tucked away in a cozy bungalow.

Gee! But I like the shirt that man over there has on. It is black and white striped. And it doesn't have any numbers on it. (I said that for the benefit of those who knew Hal Olson in the good old days at O. H. S.) Yes! He was quite a guy (and still is). The shirt he has on happens to be an old referee shirt that he wore to referee the game between the national champs Flat Bush and a little town called Milroy. (Founded by Kilroy's brother.) Hal has made quite a name for himself. It's nothing unusual at all to open a sports sheet and see his smiling face. All he does anymore is smile. And who wouldn't if they were in his shoes. He married the beautiful red head, Sylvia DeSneer, who is heir to the DeSneers, Swivals, and Snivals millions.

Those children are simply driving me crazy. They want some candy now. Here comes a good-looking woman with a sack of candy. Maybe she will be kind and give them some. She's going towards them and I believe she's their mother. Of all things. That's Barbara Pruett, the former Barbara De La Bar. And here comes Web. My! They look happy. And it's a wonder, after sixteen years of marriage. They were planning to marry the year Barbara graduated from high school, but after her debut in the school play as Taris, she was discovered by talent scouts and went to the Broadway stage, thus delaying matrimony.

As I'm thinking of all these seniors, along comes that vivacious red head, Pauline McGraw. She is now one of the big shots of the Bell Telephone Company. (I bet those wires buzz.) Since she has become fairly wealthy, she has made a big investment in lime trucks. I've heard she even drives one every now and then. I'd be afraid to drive one for fear I'd get in a wreck but they said she manages it very nicely. It seems she had a lot of past experiences in driving one. Anyway it's a change for her since her operation. Yes! She had a throat operation. I guess saying, "number please", and, "thank you", were too much for her after so many years of telephone operating. But I'll bet she had earlier complications from cheer leading in high school.

As our boat glides along the shimmering water, we find it a beautiful memory to look back upon the happenings of yesterday. As we reminisce over old high school acquaintances, we sail down the river of life, through the currents, breakers, and other obstacles, until we reach our ever-searching goal on our "Bon Voyage".

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of 1947, do hereby make, publish and declare this to be our last will and testament.

To the faculty, we wish to express our appreciation for their diligence in preparing us for our graduation.

To the Freshmen of '48 we leave our success and happiness.

To the Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors of '48
we leave the shining road to knowledge.

Louise wills her position at the top of each class
To Martha Hanson. May this help her through fast.

Barbara D. wills Jimmy, who is a pest
To the Junior Class so she can rest.

Billy leaves his way with the gals
To Charlie Ruberg, that they will be pals.

Pauline McGraw wills her pleasant ways
To Eileen Nolan who has her bad days.

She leaves too, her job at school
To Rosalie Gilbert, who is always cool.

Hal Olson wills his presidency of the class
To Patty Peters, a deserving lass.

And he leaves his seat in Physics class
To Ann Swann to help her pass.

Joan R. leaves her Ford V-8
To Virginia Ransdell who then won't be late.

Richard Slover wills his tallness and weight
To Don Melon. That would help make him great.

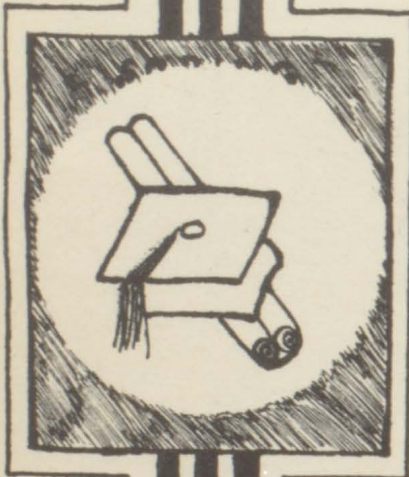

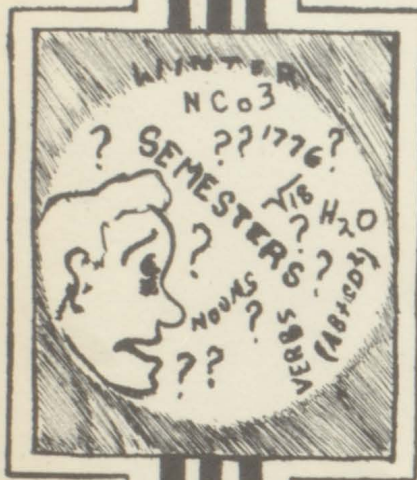

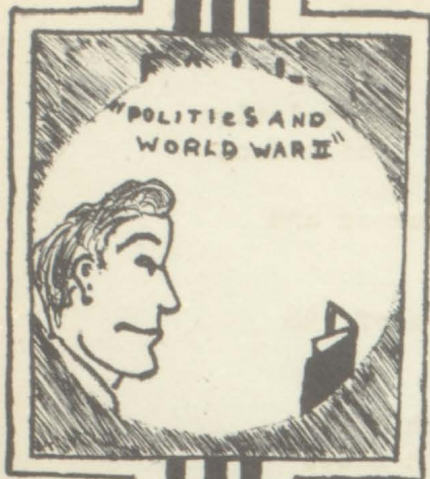

Pearl Thompson leaves her very pretty voice
To Marian Fisher. Isn't that a good choice?

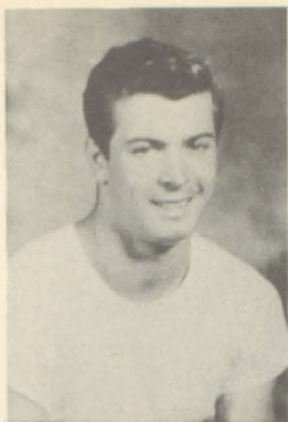

She also wills her position as soda jerk
To Mary McConnell. We hope she won't shirk.

Barbara Thomas wills her industrious bent
To the Sells twins, for whom it was meant.

Signed and sealed by our official hands this 24th day of April, 1947.

An EDUCATION is the most essential and valuable asset one may possess. Why? Because you cannot mortgage, or hypothecate it in any manner as security to a debt, or trade, barter, or sell it to anyone. It is intangible and therefore not transferable. Therefore, in the extreme depths of adversity, you cannot loose this most valuable possession.

We highly recommend to all boys and girls to take every advantage offered by our great SCHOOL SYSTEM to get an education, and, to make every minute count of the time spent in pursuit thereof. It is almost impossible to overdo in this pursuit, and, we urge that you constantly and persistently strive to get the very best education obtainable.
