

THE 1979 SOUTHERNER

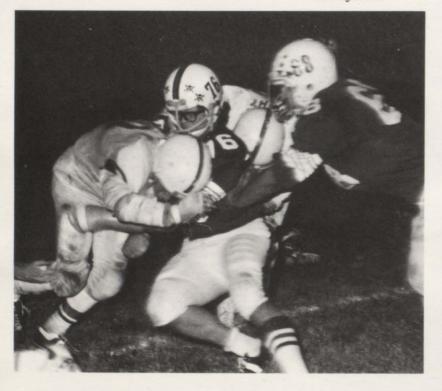

A RECORD YEAR

IN MEMORY OF RONNIE D. WAID

Youthful Immortality

Most teenagers think that life goes on until they're rid of their worst foes. All of us don't realize that we might be the next ones that have to see the pearly gates of heaven or the roaring fires of hell. For us, that youthful immortality took a turn for the worse when God looked for someone and it was Ronnie who believed in youthful immortality,

CLASS PROPHECY

Good evening Ladies and Gentlemen. We'd like to invite you to step aboard the Loveboat cruise of the graduating class of 1979. We're very honored to have so many class members still with us after 25 years. We hope that everyone enjoys the voyage and that no one gets seasick.

The distinguished crew consists of a few of our very own classmates. We are fortunate enough to have the very capable Kevin Nomad Fowler as our captain. Tonight there will be a double-take; we have as your hostesses with mostesses Robin and Roxanne Livermore. Unfortunately, Roxanne won't be with us long as she must catch a plane with the Corzatt Airlines.

As the class gathers on deck for the bon voyage—wait, wait, wait, where's LoReah? We see she still has the habit of being late.

For the security of all the members of the class, we have on board Bill Kay, Bruce Johnson, and Rick Hobby as our auxilliary police.

As we step over by the pool we see some eager members taking a dip. Yes, someone's running; yes, someone's jumping; yes, yes, yes, it's a belly flop by lifeguard Kay McFall. Running in after her is none other than Jock Itchey, Woops, Jack Richey. Is there a doctor on board? Nurses dashing this way are Nurses Douglas and Roth. Soothing the salve on Kay's belly is sexy Rexy, now a nurse's assistant to Marlene.

Preparing tonight's meal will be smiling Chef Monte Klossing. His devilish smile kinda makes ya wonder what he's putting in those Monte muffins. And speaking of smiling one of our classmates has smiled her way to fame and fortune. Cindi Pesley who has a smile bigger than Mr. Johnson or Jimmy Carter is now doing Ultra-Brite commercials.

Assisting Monte tonight will be Iva Lant. She has distinguished herself in the fast food business with her famous Media Maidrites. However, competition is stiff these days with Sherry Mosher and her char-broiled burgers.

The entertainment tonight will be provided by Tom Spears, Brian Bell, and Theron Carlson who are members of a band called AA. No, this inn't your usual AA group; this one is into something called Awful Arrangements.

Some of the ladies are wearing elegantly designed dresses. If you check the tags, they will read 'designs by Martha and Nita'. The hair of many of the members of the class was fixed by Betty Livermore. Wearing her latest creation, giggling all the way is Veronica Sutcliffe. It is called the 30-second look. All you do is stick your finger in a socket and it's ready in 30 seconds.

Tonight's MC is the humorous Scott Lafary. Sorry, we've been informed that he was banned from all public speaking—no rabbit jokes tonight. Instead we will have Rick Waterman—well, where is he? I guess he's checking out the magazine rack. This issue of Playboy features Stephanie Inflated—I guess she's had a change over the years.

It's time for everyone to take a bow. The Black Belt, Dan Distin is doing his routine to Kung Fu fighting. I hope this time he removed the foil.

We also have other talent with us tonight; Mick Pulse, Mary Huffman, and Todd Smith have dribbled their way into the Gerber Baby Food Business.

Hopefully, everyone can stay up until 12 p.m. for Scott Shaner will attempt to jump 10 waves with his latest invention, the boater motorcycle. Good luck Scott. Who are those unfamiliar faces over there? It must be Jim and Robert of the Hawk and Corzatt Estates, Inc. A few of their assistants are Dave Keane, Scott Overton, and Bobby Harden. These people have made their wealth by raising hog manure instead of spreading it.

Some other members of the class who have made their fame in the farming business are Scott Torrance and Rod Carlson. They invented the unpolled horney hog.

Is that a woman or is that a man—it's Wilma. The former Jeff Phillips, rumor has it she's much happier now.

One person old age hasn't affected is the former Peggy Bigger, a receptionist who is often seen sitting on her boss's lap. Wait there's no hanky panky, it's her husband, President of Eagle Store.

Our modern Loveboat is lucky enough to have on the lower deck a disco. The entertainment is provided by Mighty Mo and her magical fingers. Dancing to Joanne's tunes is Cindi Peasley, the disco dancer who taught John Travolta everything he knows and more. Learning a few pointers are Rev. Jim Coonce and animal doctor, Eric Baxter, and his faithful assistant, Peggy Carnes.

The passengers on board should feel safe because we have the mechanics Paul Cook and Darryl Magee with us. They are now running the Chevrolet Garage in Stronghurst.

The girls in the corner wearing their new inventions for the Basket factory are Susan Fryrear and Dianne Magee. They are modeling Basket Hats.

Coming this way is Professor Shinkle, who graduated from Radcliffe and is working on a cure for freckles.

The practical joker, Julie Hicks, did it again but this time she's gone too far. She is now the star of her own comedy hour on the TV station D.U.M.B. This week's guest star is that wild and crazy guy, Steve Martin.

Unfortunately for Southern High School Mr. Johnson has retired, but to fill in his shoes is Julie Wood, who after many consecutive board meetings nominated herself. Acting as her assistants are Rhonda Vancil and Rhonda Scott to help her with the ever-rising problems of Southern High School students.

Quick Miss Galbraith hopin your 'Vet'. We need some assistance. Someone's going to jump off the boat. No, it's only Mr. Geiser. I guess his Bi-Focals have failed him again.

The scoreboard at the right tells the story of the 1978 Rebel team. It serves to remind us of the enthusiasm, the support, and the united spirit that we all shared. Along with the good memories are the bad — the long, hot practices, the hard work, and a dream that didn't quite come true.

It truly was a record year for the Rebels. Much of the season the Rebels were ranked in the polls as one of the top teams in the state, and they went on to live up to those rankings. The Rebels advanced farther than ever before — making it to the quarterfinals before being defeated by Hampshire.

This scoreboard reflects our proud claim that VICTORY WAS OURS.

The Way We Were

Prom 1979 Holiday Inn

April 21

"The Way We Were" — an appropriate theme for Southern's Junior-Senior Prom held April 21, 1979. Many fond memories were relived as the juniors and seniors remembered their years together.

The memorable evening began as Ken Mosher, toastmaster, humorously recalled and highlighted achievements of various members of the senior class. Jon Schar, junior class president, welcomed the guests; Joanne Spears, senior class president, responded with appreciation to the juniors. Tina Brown led the group in the invocation. A sit-down dinner of turkey and dressing followed.

After dinner, the senior class prophecies were read by Cindi Peasley and Jack Richey. As the prophecies were read, slides of baby pictures of senior class members were shown.

Natalie Dowell provided musical entertainment for the guests. She sang "The Theme from MAHOGANY" (Do You Know Where You're Going To?). Natalie also played a flute solo during the selection; she was accompanied on the piano by Vicki Venardi.

The class will was read by Kay McFall and Robert Corzatt. Richard Clifton appeared as guest speaker. His talk focused on the importance of making the future happen. He emphasized that living on past accomplishments would not further one's future.

Jon Schar closed the program thanking all the students and faculty for helping make Prom a success.

During the evening, the Prom King and Queen were chosen. Members of the court were as follows: Tim Dillon, Scott Dillard, Thad Carlson, Lori Torrance, Cheryl Huss, and Pam Talbott. The 1978 King and Queen, Dan Distin and Roxanne Livermore, crowned the 1979 King and Queen, Jon Schar and Jean Brown. The royalty danced to the theme song, "The Way We Were."

The Holiday Inn was decorated in maroon and silver. Floral arrangements of maroon and white mums around a picture cube enhanced the tables. Music was provided by Cartridge City Electronics of Burlington. After the dinner and dance, the fun continued for many who went to the Burlington Bowl.
