CLASS OF 1993 — PROPHECIES CLASS REUNION

Scott Anders, now owner and head manager of, none other than, his own Submarine Company. He is now very successful.

Unfortunately Dave and Garrett couldn't be here tonight. After winning a grand prize drawing, they were awarded guest appearances in the new movie, Harley Davidson and The Marlboro Men.

Hope Avery Root, after five years of marriage to Robbie, and a few broken hands, lives in rural Colorado taking photos of vultures eating road kills along the Grand Canyon.

Ryan Booton has been named for so many accomplishments. He has started the Clarence and Cleo radio show, entertained truck drivers, and has become head sponsor for the Missing Persons' Search. His big case has been Michael Bigger for the past 5 years. He still keeps his photos in his wallet and is hoping Michael hasn't cut his hair. Unfortunately, John Bengel couldn't be here tonight. He planned to attend, but when the reunion committee called to confirm his RSVP, he said that he couldn't make it and wondered if we could change it to another night. John had a very impressive future ahead of him after the National Guard, becoming engaged to Cindy Crawford after her tragic break-up with Richard and also landing a lead role in the new John Claude VanDamm movie, but changed his mind at the last minute and decided to become the Raritan garbageman.

Robert Cassidy, being married to Dulcy, comes in with 4 kids behind him. With Dulcy being so liberated, he has become the Mr. Mom of the family, only working part-time for a soap company, and is now addicted to Soap Operas. Katie Clifton has become the 1st woman in the NBA. She credits her career accomplishments to Mr. Blender. If it wasn't for him, she wouldn't be there. Also, she now has a contract with Bounty Paper Towels.

Lori Cortelyou, completing her study in Marine Biology, has taken over Marlen Perkins' job at Wild Kingdom, and has renamed the show, "If You Can Tame It, You Can Pet It."

Matt Davis, finally receiving a raise from $4.35 to $4.365 at Jacks, runs a Demo Junk Yard and on the side has a phone line that has the motto, "If You Need A Friend, I'll Be Your Friend."

Jenny Gibb, now Jenny Ford, is taking Scott to court after he insisted that an Eagle Talon was too sporty for her and that she should keep the Duster.

Steve Henson, feeling very relieved to get away from Illinois and back to Indiana, still misses his 7th grade love with Ann Lafary, and has now taken over Jimmy Hendrix and has a band called "Kiss II."

Dirty Flyin', Paul Huntebrinker cruises into the parking lot in his motorized wheelchair. After 37 leg shootings and having a Brahma Bull step on him, he can neither talk nor walk too well.

Joe Kane now operates a farm outside Smithshire, sells Case IH tractors, and collects station wagons in his spare time. Joe's latest derby car is a Chrysler Imperial which Joe has nicknamed, "The Derelict."

Ann Lafary has shown up stressed out and with high blood pressure for the first time. Since being a parole officer, she has been handcuffed to her desk, jammed to the wall, and rolled down the hallway like a bowling ball.

Gene Lee is now a dentist, specializing in the making of false teeth. After high school, Gene went bald and is now a part-time model for the Hair Club for Men.

Christi Lefler, with six kids and a husband named Matt, has opened a day care center for overworked mothers.

Ray Mills is now co-owner of Majestic Vacuum Cleaners, which he and his brother, Wayne, run out of their mother's basement.

Hope Neff, after many decisions, has decided to stay on at Jack and Jill's full-time, run around with Wendy Lyon, and soap Buck's truck windows. She never did move out of her parent's house.

Kim and Jim Kane are now in a competition with their neighbors, Doug and Amy Vancil, to see who can have the most children. Currently, it is Kane's 8: Vancil's 10. The contest has been delayed for awhile because both women almost suffered paralysis from the waist down and because they decided to go to night school classes, where they are still the only ones that pay attention in class. Doug has bribed Gene Lee into selling him stock in the Hair Club for Men at a discount price, as their 10 boys will eventually need it. In the contract, Doug agreed to talk about knee injuries while covering boys' basketball games, as he has taken over Dan Nolan's job at WMOI as the short radio man.

Believe it or not, Bryan Short cannot be here tonight because he has taken over the new comic issues of SpiderMan, and we think he is living in Superman's underwear.

Jamie Sly has opened a new salon in the mall called "You Sly Dog You." She has hired Dave from Regis and Mark from JCPenney salons. She has reasonable rates.

Jason Wallingford, now called "Popeye the Sailor Man," has come back bald due to a haircutting accident and has consulted Gene Lee for advice. Meanwhile, he is checking in to see if the "Q" Club has renewed his membership card.

Also, our foreign exchange student, Jasper Nap, went back to Holland and joined a basketball league. He is still anxiously awaiting to make his first basket.

And finally, Dulcy White, after life in high school, felt and believed Olena could use a new Hotel Manager. In the corner of this hotel, an ear piercing store is located, in which Dulcy uses her teeth to make the holes. She got the idea from her 3rd grade experience with INSANE JOE KANE!

RELAXING WITH THE CLASS OF '93

JASPER NAP VISITS AMERICA FROM HOLLAND

My stay in the United States has been great so far. I had to get used to country music which I was not familiar with. If you're an exchange student, there will be a lot of neat experiences but there are also times when you don't feel like staying in your "new" country anymore. I want to thank all the teachers and students from Southern High School. You all have been very important to me and always helped me out when things were not going the right way. I did a lot of new things here such as playing basketball, cruising, going to baseball games, and a lot more. Thank you and I hope to see you again sometime!
